BOLD BURGLARIES.

E. J. Post and Company of Albuquerque Have Their Fifth Robbery.

[BY DIRECT WHE TO THE TRUES.]

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.) Nov. 18.—

[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two of the boldest burgiaries in the history of this city occurred last night. E. J. Post & Co.'s wholesale hardware store and L. Schmaker's second-hand store, located on the principal thoroughfare of the city, were broken into from the front, shortly before midnight, and in the full blaze of the electric lights. At the former place, twenty-five Colt's six-shooters and a half dozen other guns were stolen, and from the latter three watches were carried away. The burglars succeeded in escaping without detection.

As previously indicated in the dispatches, the American Commissioner will not involve the United States in any obligation to the creditors of Spain in any shape or form. In other words the Americans will not guarantee an of the Spanish bonds, even if they have mortgaged as security the revenues of territory to be taken by the United States.

As set forth in these dispatches October 31, and previously, the United states may now balance its war ledger debiting to Spain the value of the bat tleship Maine, the cost of the naval llitary operations, the losses curred by American commerce and the future pension roll, etc., while on the other side of the sheet may be placed Spain's equities and values in the Philippines. (ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.-The two Commissioners in the answer presented joint commission will not be permitted to change the attitude of the United were in substance that the Spaniards raised as to authority of the Spanish government to pledge the resources of the Philippine loan, and they could not permit an accounting of the method n which the proceeds of this loan had been expended. There is reason to believe that the Spanish purpose is to conceal enormous defalcations by the Spanish officials who have governed the Philippines since the issue of the loan. The ostensible purpose is to be able to pleal inability to state what "pacific expenditures" have been on account of the Philippines, which was all that the United States proosed to reimburse them for

Our government, however, in antici prepared the American commi with instructions which exactly me this case. They know approximately the value of the betterments in the Philippines, having ascertained this es. Knowing this, they can afford to ignore entirely the efforts of the Spaniards to becloud the facts, and will adopt the simple expedient of proffering a lump sum, as many million dollars as it is deemed fair and just to tender for the Spanish proper-ties, requiring and tendering no state-

It is believed that the Spanish missioners finally will accept this of-fer, though it is fully expected that once the commission reaches the point of naming the sum of money and has left behind it all the irrelevant discussion touching sov-ereignty, the Spanish commissioners may make a determined effort to se-cure a larger allowance than the President has sanctioned. Judging, however, by the conduct of the American commissioners up to this point, there will be very little latitude allowed the Spaniards in this matter, and it is believed that they have come to appreciate the fact that the American proposettion is in the and just about proposition is in the end just about what it was at the beginning, and that American diplomacy is straight-forward at all points.

Complaints of Lawless Conduct—The Evacuation of Clentueges. [ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The Cablnet session today was devoted to a large extent to the consideration of Department alleging that a state of practical anarchy prevails in Porto Rico. These complaints asserted that the lawless elements are committing depredations of the gravest character, and that the seriousness of the situa-tion is increased by the fact that United States troops likewise have been guilty of gross misconduct, Secretary Alger, at the instance of the President, cabled Gen. Brooke inquire ing as to the accuracy of the com

During the meeting it was learned that a long dispatch from the American Peace Commissioners at Paris was in process of translation at the State Department. It is gathered from the few paragraphs so far deciphered that the dispatch relates entirely to the presentation of the Spanish case made on Wednesday last, and contain neither new or sensational facts.

The question of opening a port Cuba, was also under discussion. It appears from information just received that there are approximately 30,000 Spanish troops near Cleafundos, which it was intended so occupy first, and this fact may necessitate the selection of another port.

It is said that the plantations in the islands are in great need of supplies and machinery with which to make and machinery with which to make the present sugar crop. The plantabeen completely devastated and the machinery broken up, and unless a measure will be lost. The presence of the Spanish troops at Clenfuegos has complicated matters, and the govern-ment is now undecided as to what fuegos was regarded as a particularly desirable port, as from it a large part of the island could be reached by rail. The Spaniards, it seems, are dis posed to evacuate Havana earlier than was expected, but it is said to be probable that Clenfuegos will be one of the last of the large towns they intend in the to evacuate. The government is now exist in favor of Spain, this amount, commissioners at Havana, and other in cash, may be offered her by the ports than Clenfuegos will likely be lecided upon within a very short time

Lawless, too, had jumped across to track No. 1, keeping all the time a sharp lookout. Suddenly there was a rumble of wheels and the shriek of a whistle. The Millstone local, delayed by fog, was coming along at the rate of forty miles an hour. Lawless was struck and thrown thirty feet away, mangled and bleeding. On went the train. OFFICIAL EXPLANATION.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—As the Chicago, Bock Island and Pacific general offices it was easted that the vrecks were caused by the heavy tog prevailing to the Mississippi Valley, rendering it almost impossible for the engineers to see the block signals.

The first collision was at Moscow. An extra west-bound freight having the right-of-way was run into by a regular east-bound freight, one engineer being killed and the other badly wrecked. A wrecking-train was immediately ordered out from Wilton, a few miles east. Just as the wrecking-train pulled out of the siding on the main track, the west-bound Chicago fast mail ran into the rear end, ecattering the wrecking outfit in all directions and more or less seriously injuring twelve workmen. The engineer of the passenger train could not see the signal until within a few feet of it, when it was too late.

FARRAGUT'S FAILURE. Didn't Reach Thirty-knot Speed or Third Trial. [A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 .- A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington says bufft in the United States and the only one of that speed which has as yet un dergone official trial, has finally failed to reach the requirements after three attempts, the first two of which resulted in serious damage to the sel. A telegram received from Lieu tenant-Commander Franklin J. Drake by Secretary Long, shows that th Farragut on her final trial near Sar Francisco on November 10, ran 29.73 knots an hour. He says that this remarkably high speed was achieved with no excessive vibrations of the hull or undue friction of engines. The vessel ran straight away for half ar lowed by a turn accomplished within fifteen seconds, and another dash of half an hour, this time at the rate of inteen seconds, and another dash of half an hour, this time at the rate of 30.19 knots, the average for the whole course being 29.73.

The Union Iron Works of San Francisco, which built the vessel, has appealed to Secretary Long to accept her, declaring that she easily makes the required speed of 30 knots under ordinary conditions, but was retarded in the official trial by shallow water and heavy winds in the first half, when the speed fell behind the contract rate. The act of Congress of June 10, 1896, authorising this vessel and the Dahleren and the Tam Craven, now building at Bath, Me, is novel, in that, it stipulates that the vessels shall make at least 30 knots, and the contracts call for that speed, and declare that if the vessels fall to make it they shall be rejected. The department was therefore compelled to decide that a fourth trial would be necessary, it being coweriess to waive the conditions, although the belief was general among officers that a difference of seventeen-hundredths of a knot was impracticable of measurement in a thirty-five-mile

The two similar boats building at Bath, Me., are within 20 per cent. of completion, and it is expected that their trials will take place in about a month All three of the vessels have been de livered to the government under cor tract in the early part of last Apri and they have already for last Apri and they have already accumulated large bills on account of the delay penalties. The failure of the Union Iron Works boat to accomplish its designed velocity—although the Scotts who built her are famous for the expension of the state of th who built her are famous for the ex-cellence of their work, as shown in the Oregon, the Monterey, the Olympia, the San Francisco, the Charleston and San Francisco, the Charteson and other vessels—is thought to foreshadow much greater difficulties with the Bath Iron Works boats, as that company has hitherto had indifferent success with the vessels it has furnished to the navy, with the possible exception of the funboats Machias and Castine, although their performances have not with the vessels it has furnished to the navy, with the possible exception of the gunboats Machias and Castine, although their performances have not been extraordinary.

An instance of Pacific Coast energy under difficulties was shown at the Navy Department in the issue of orders for Commander Drake, Naval Constructor Spear and Engineer Smith to meet at the shipyard of Wolff & Zwicker, Portland, Or., November 22, to try the torpedo boat Davis. It was aboard this vessel about three weeks ago seven were killed by the explosion of one of her boilers on her trial trip. A new boiler and other extensive repairs have been completed in this remarkably short time, and another attempt will be made next Tuesday to maintain a speed of twenty-two and one-half knots for two hours.

Another twenty-two-knot boat, the Fox, is also practically completed at the same works, and will be tried as soon as the Davis is accepted by the government. The twenty-six-knot boat Rowan, which should have been finished by Moran Brothers at Seattle last January, may also be added to the navy before the end of the year, completing the first four and only torpedo boats on the Pacific Coast, the Atlantic fleet having hitherto monopolized this type of craft.

Mountain News publishes the following telegram, signed by R. A. Alger, Secretary of War:

"No thought has been given to muster out the Colorado Regiment, nor will there be until peace is declared."

Last Sunday Gov. Adams received a letter from Adjt.-Gen. Corbin in which the following language was ussed: "It is the purpose of the War Department to return to the United States within a few months the volunteer regiments now serving in Manila, other volunteer regiments now serving in Manila, other volunteer regiments now serving in Manila, other volunteer regiments now being on their way to replace them. It is believed this will have been accomplished and the soldier for whom you write will return to you about as soon as though his discharge were ordered immediately."

The apparent disagreement between the two messages is causing considerable speculation as to whether a change has occurred in the Philippine situation within the past week.

MANY DRAWBACKS. Chief Surgeon Greenleaf Criticises

Camp Alger.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] NEW YORK, Nov. 18.-The War In vestigation Commission met here to-day. All the members were present except Col. Danby and Maj. Miles. Dr. Charles S. Greenleaf, chief surgeon of the troops in the field on Gen. Miles's staff, said that in some respects Miles's staff, said that in some respects.

Camp Alger was a good camp for a small body of men, but there were many drawbacks. The water supply was poor, and the country was known to be highly malarious.

There was a deficiency of privates in the hospital corps and of medical officers, and at times medical supplies. The best interests of the sick, Dr. Greenleaf said, were not seriously im-

The best interests of the sick, Dr. Greenleaf said, were not seriously imperiled, but the efforts of the physicians were generally embarrassed. Taking up the question of the lack of tents, surgeons and medical supplies in Cuba, Dr. Conner asked Dr. Greenleaf how the medical supplies were delayed at Siboney. Dr. Greenleaf said he did not know. "Who finaily unloaded these supplies?" asked Dr. Conner. "I did; I captured six pontoons and took the law into my own hands." "You unloaded in thirty-six hours supplies that had been lying in the harbor for two weeks. Why did not Dr. Pope, chief surgeon of Gen. Shafter's corps, land them within those two weeks?"

"I suppose he was at the front at-tending to the wounded."
"Did Dr. Pope take charge of one wounded man?"

"I cannot say," replied Dr. Greenleaf.
"I am sure that Dr. Pope did the best he could. I had full authority from Gen.
Miles to do what I thought best."

In reply to a question, Dr. Greenleaf said he supposed Dr. Pope had authority from Gen. Shafter sufficient to enable him to unload the supplies at Siboney as he (Greenleaf) had done.

"There is no doubt," said Dr. Conner, "that somebody was dreadfully at who it was?"

Dr. Greenleaf said he could not, In reply to another question, Dr. Greenleaf said that it was usual in time of war to anticipate the wants of wounded men and to expect that there would be wounded. He could not tell if all the proper arrangements had been made in Cuba, but he knew that the stores had not been landed. He declared positively that he found no evidence of any neglect or incompetency on the positively that he found no evidence of any neglect or incompetency on the part of any man or officer. CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Within two weeks. Allison V. Armour's yacht Utonowana will leave New York Harbor for the coast of Yucatan bearing dts owner, a number of his New York friends, and the the Chicago botanist, dts owner, a number of his New York friends, and the the Chicago botanist, Dr. Charles F. Milispaugh, curator of the botanical department of the Field Columbian Museum, and botanical lecturer at the University of Chicago. The expedition will be absent until March. Three years ago, Armour acted as the host of a similar party, including Dr. Milispaugh also as a guest, on a trip to the same country. The result of three months spent along the coast and up the rivers was a rich botanical collection for the museum, giving Dr. Milispaugh material for a series of publications on the flora of the coast and plain regions.

It is the intention this time for the party to leave the yacht and proceed into the mountain district of the interior, a region where the flora has been little classified. Dr. Milispaugh is considered the authority on Yucatan, and it is hoped that he will be able to add discoveries in plant life by another solourn in the country. It will be his fourth trip.

Interest also centers in the journey now soon to be made by Prof. Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago, in the wilds of Mexico. With a wealthy London physician, and two native guides he will visit acversal islands in the Guif of Tehauntepec, inhabited by tribes of savage Indians. Their most hazardous venture will be an attempt to visit any island where are located the sacred caves worshiped by the natives. In addition to the usual explorers' supplies, Prof.

GOLD STATISTICS.

Imports and Production Largest [A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 .- A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington says the importations of gold into the United States in the year 1898 are by far the largest in the history of the country, and the exportations are the mallest in many years, while the pro duction of gold from American mine will prove the largest in many years not the largest in the country's nnnals. The October statement of mports and exports just issued by the Treasury. Bureau of Statistics hows that the total imports of gold the ten months ending October 31 82 are $143,658,055, which is more than 0 ner cent in excess of the amount 50 per cent. in excess of the amount imported in the corresponding period of any preceding year. The exports in that time have been only $14,061,840, which is less than in the corresponding months of any preceding year for more than a decade.

This gives the enormous balance of $129,596,246 in excess of exportations. In only one other year in the decade have the ten months ending with October shown an excess of imports of gold over the exports, that occasion being 1896, when the excess of imports was $37,085,861. In all other years from 1885 to 1898, the October returns showed for the ten months of the calendar year an excess of exports of gold over the imports of that article, that of 1895 being $43,247,360, and 1894, $72,809,322.

This unprecendented flow of gold

This unprecendented flow of gold into the United States is accounted for into the United States is accounted for in part, at least, by the enormous balance of trade in this country's favor, which the ten months of the year have afforded. In those ten months the total imports in merchandise amounted to only $527.557.554, while the total exports were $687.964.356. a favorable balance of trade of $430.706,802. The total exports of merchandise for the month of October, 1898, amounted to $118.696,222, a sum larger than in any preceding October in the history of the country, the figures for October, 1897, being $111.744.517, and those for October, 1896, $113.516,586.

The enormous importation of gold in excess of the exportation is plainly perceptible in the increased circulation shown by the figures of the Treasury Department. The latest statetion shown by the figures of the Treasury Department. The latest statement of the gold in the treasury shows a balance of $242,805.604, while the gold in circulation on November 1, was $469,846,727, being $110.000,000 greater than on November 1 of last year, and nearly $200,000,000 more than in July 1. 1896, in which month it touched the lowest point in several years.

The total money in circulation at the beginning of the present month is shown by the treasury officials to have been $1,886.675,782, acquint $1,706,732,904 at the corresponding date last year, and $1,509,732,200 July 1, 1896, the increase in circulation in the last year having been $159.842,878, and since July 1, 1896, $356,850,882.

The other prisoners in the shop where the shooting occurred took no part in the affair, but it is understood that they stood ready to follow if the efforts of the two leaders proved successful. Previous to making the outbreak, one of the two prisoners forced a third man to place a ladder against the outside of the prison wall, so when they had fought their way out of the shop they could shoot down the wall guard and make their escape by that route. It is not known how the first revolver was secured by the convicts, and at this time it is impossible to secure definite statements of the details of the shooting.

SHIPWRECKED MARINERS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The British steamer Peconic, which arrived at guarantine today, brought into port eighteen shipwrecked mariners who were taken from the Dutch bark Jo-hanna, which was found in a sinking condition. The Peconic sighted the Johanna, which was found in a sinking condition. The Peconic sighted the Johanna flying signals of distress, November 11, in Lat. 36 deg. 24m. N.; Long. 54 deg. 3m. W., and took off the men whom she landed here today. The Johanna sailed from New York October 31 for Honolulu. November 9 a terrific gale set in from the north-northwest, accompanied by enormous seas. The midship bulwarks and main hatch were smashed in, the deck beams were broken, and the vessel began to take in water at an alarming rate. The ship was seen to weave and buckle

The first boat was dashed to pieces against the side of the veesel, but the second boat was successfully launched with the entire crew. The wind had in the mean time increased the fury of the terrible seas. The small boat had been damaged in the effort to launch it from the wreck, and constant bailing was required to keep it aflost.

In these circumstances the eighteen unfortunate seamen spent two days in the vicinity of the Johanns, as they had determined to return to the derelict when the weather subsided. Finally, November 11, the wind and sea went down and the men clambered on board of the wreck and set distress signals. At 11 p.m., the Peconic was seen approaching, and lifeboats shortly afterward came to their rescue. Capt. Maars, the mate and several of the men were more or less bruised. The Johanna was built at Albasserdam, Holland, in 1890; was of 1164 tons, and was owned by J. Vroege, She was laden with general merchandise and machinery.

WAR ACCOUNT. NEWS SINCE MIDNIGHT

[Under this heading are printed the very latest exclusive dispatches, being the cream of the news in the New York morning newspapers of today, which is wired from that city by the Times' special New York correspondent about 5 a.m. reaching Los Angeles about 2 a.m.]

THE SITUATION AT PARIS SAID TO JUSTIFY THIS VIEW.

Spanish Commission, it is Alleged Has Received Word That Al-fonse's Government Accepts the Best Terms Possible—Reasons

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Paris advices are that the negotiations situation justifies the as-sertion that peace is at last in sight sertion that peace is at last in sight. The execution of the treaty may be slightly delayed by a possible change in the personnel of the Spanish commission, but the Madrid government has definitely decided to accept the American terms, or rather the best terms available. Instructions to this effect have been received by Sefior Montero Rios, president of the Spanish Commission, and his associates from Sagasta, and although Sefior Montero Rios does not withdraw his declaration that he will never yield to the Amer-that he will never yield to the American demands, there can be no doubt of the final result.

A majority of the Spanish representations tatives in Paris are deeply chagrined by this sudden decision of the home government, and they naturally give a diplomatic denial of all knowledge of such action, but the authority for making the announcement is beyond question. The decision is doubtless based upon the exigencies of the do-mestic political situation.

WILLIE'S HOME RUN. A Berlin special says it transpire menacing aspect which the Spanish-American peace negotiations have as-sumed at Paris. It is true that, under the circumstances, the Kaiser would not think of landing on Spanish soil, much less accepting an invitation from the Queen Regent to visit Madrid, but the real cause of the Kaiser's hasty return is attributed by well-informed German diplomats to the threatening situation in the Far East, where it li imperative that Germany shall be protected.

It is known that England is anxious for if she should to assert herself now, for if she should defer hostilities another five years, the combined navies of Russia and France would equal the British navy in strength and numbers, and then England would be sure to lose all that she has gained in the Orient. That the Kaiser returns before the expected declaration of war is not because he wants to take a hand in the conflict. To the contrary, it is believed that he will do all in his power to insure Germany's neutrality.

AGUINALDO'S NEW ROLE. It is reported that Aguinaldo has ap-peared in a new role, having issued an edict ordering the suppression of the Philippine newspaper, El Credo de la Republica, published at Mallos, capital of the revolutionary government, on account of the publication of an arti-cle, several weeks ago, in which it was intimated that annexation to the United States would prove advantageous to the islands, and far better than Span-ish authority. The order since has been modified, that the paper may con-tinue publication, but the repetition of the offense will result in the suppression of the paper and the imprisonment of the editor. This is the first in-stance where the Philippine dictator has ever attempted to act as a press censor, the chief reason being, perhaps, that newspapers are not numerous in the Philippine Ligands. Asymptotic will the Philippine Isla not permit any of his party to even suggest anything other than the abso-lute independence of the islands with himself as president, which is his chie

NAVAL INCREASE. In the forthcoming annual report, Secretary Long will recommend that Congress during the coming session authorize a large increase of ships and men for the naval establishment. His recommendations will include the authorization of the construction of three battleships of 13,500 tons displacement, hatteships of 13,000 tons displacement, three armored cruisers of 12,000 tons displacement, three second-class cruisers of 6000 tons displacement, and six third-class cruisers of 3000 tons displacement. The Secretary also recommends that authority be given the department to enlist 20,000 men and 2500 tons.

HATRED OF AMERICANS.

Hatred of Americans in Havane exists in a most virulent form among the Spanish volunteers there. Last night a procession in honor of Saint Christopher, the patron eaint of Havana, gave them an opportunity to give vent to an expression of this feeling. After their dismissal from duty, many bands of these paraded in the Prado and in Reina street, giving vent to the cries of "Death to the Americans!" and "Viva España!" The bystanders were insulted and jostled about, and the slightest offensive incident would have been the signal for some outbreak. As it was, with the many Cubans in the vicinity, who had come in from their camp at Marianso, a collision was avoided only by a miracle, it seemed HATRED OF AMERICANS. camp at Marianao, a collision was avoided only by a miracle, it seemed For some unaccountable reason the Spanish authorities have increased the severity of censorship over news going to the United States and over papers arriving in Havana.

Wall street has been filled with rumors of impending troubles, and the result has been a heavy selfing of Northern Pacific common stock, both for local and foreign account, causing a decline of several points. It was rumored that Hill and his friends had sold out their holdings. Hill, it is said has not been consulted as much as formerly in the management of the Northern Pacific, and has apparently learned that the company will not be run as an appendage to the Great Northern, as many persons thought might happen when Hill originally became interesetd in Northern Pacific stock. In short, it is said, Morgan has taken into his own hands the future policy of the Northern Pacific.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] QUEENSTOWN, Nov. 18.-[By At-QUEENSTOWN, Nov. 18.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Something in the nature of a sensation has been caused here by the extraordinary conduct of Capt. Johnson, commander of the British steamer Briarden, which arrived here October 21, from New York, extensively damaged by severe weather, having been almost submerged for ten days. Since that time the Briarden has been repairing for a passage west.

The Briarden was arrested this morning by a marshal of the admiralty court for debt, and a balliff was placed on board of her. The captain deter-mined to defy the court, and started for Delaware breakwater.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Nettie R. Craven, who has gained so much notoriety during the last four years as contestant for a share of the late Millionaire Faire's $12,000,000 estate, started in today on a renewed fight for a portion of the big estate. She produced a marriage contract and pencil will which the riage contract and pencil will which the jury decided were fraudulent. Then she was simply a public-school teacher with no funds except what she had saved from her salary. Now she be-gins the fight again, backed by Henry Koehler of St. Louis, a rich young man whom her daughter, Margaret Craven, recently married.

Today she applied to Judge Belcher of the Superior Court for a family allowance of $5000 a month, to be computed from the date of Fair's death, December 28, 1894. In her petition she estimates the estate as worth $12,228,998.07, "or thereabouts," and asserts that the income is $500,000 a year. Judge Belcher took the matter under advisement in order to refer it to Judge Troutt.
This action of Mrs. Craven may com-

Trout.

This action of Mrs, Craven may complicate matters for the heirs, as she may obtain orders forbidding the expenditure of the income. She has been offered $250,000 as a compromise, but insists on $500,000, and this latest application seems plainly intended to force a settlement.

THE VAN ALSTYNES.

Have Gone Into Hiding fo Different Reasons .

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Nov. 18.-[Exclusive Dis-Mrs. Charles Van Alstyne, instituted divorce proceedings rainst her husband yesterday, cov red her face with a heavy veil and ent into hiding to avoid an avenging ullet. Today Van Alstyne himself ent into seclusion to avoid an army Klondikers and others who are inrested in his case. It is said that e selected Tacoma. Little Van Alstyne, with his rough oots, high-water pants and hand-me-own clothes, is all broken up over the utcome of his plunge into the matrinonial abyss. He says a big black loud has overshadowed all his hopes f bright future. "I do not want to ee anyone," he says. "It is more han I can bear." Then he packed his runk, filled the space where his wife's hings ought to be with old papers and a few strong adjectives, and dis-oppeared. The vanguard of visitors ad just commenced to arrive.

Although Van Alstyne is not versed i "readin', writin' and 'rithmetic," he an figure out his side of the story in nd numbers. "She robbed me round numbers. "She robbed me," is the way he expresses it. He says Mrs. Van Alstyne took $36,000, and that he got back only $5000, which he took away from her in New York. He inends to fight the divorce, and will ry to show that he is not a cruel hus-and. When he learned that his wife ad left him, he was wild, and hunted the city over for her. Once he was in the same building where she was hiding, but could not find her. It is enerally believed that he would have killed her and committed suicide if given the opportunity.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Alstyne left New York the latter part of October, and came straight through to Seattle. They took rooms at the Ferguson House Van Alstyne, it is said, did not allow his wife out of his sight, but people at the hotel say that they did not hear any violent quarreling. Mrs. Van Al-styne's real name is Lou Spear. She is well known on the Pacific Coast as Lou Mahaffey.

VANCOUVER (B. C..) Nov. 18.—
Count Johan Thun of Austria, who has arrived here from Japan, came across Asia over the route of the Transsiberian Railway. He left Moscow last May. For some two hundred versts beyond Irkutsk the journey was full of great perils, and required nine days and nights of hard traveling, a greater part of the time afoot, to encompass the distance.

well advanced a year or so ago, but an era of unprededented storms set in, and embankments and bridges to the amount of about 4,300,000 roubles were washed away. The work of restoring them during the past summer was greatly interfered with by swarms of insects and other pests, which made it impossible for the men to work.

Count Thun says it is intensely cold all along the line of the road, and for the most part it is a barren and utterly desolate country. A region of some two hundred versts in extent in each direction north of Manchuria in China is undoubtedly full of almost inexhaustible gold fields, but the extreme cold will not permit them to be worked for more than three months in the year.

The road will, he thinks, be completed in about two years' time, and will be valuable chiefly in the movement of soldiers.

Peters Investigation.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18 .- The official investigation into the recent bay collision between the steamers Peters and Czarina was concluded this after noon by Inspectors Bolles and Bulger and the case will be submitted. A decision is expected in about ten days.

Chief Engineer Miller of the Peters testified today that when the collision occurred he was coming out of the Chinese steerage, having left Assistant Engineer Beare in charge of the engines a short time before. Miller had gone below to inspect the electric-light plant. He said Beare had no right to leave the throttle of the engine, as he had done. He thought the drowned Chinese had had ample time to get out of the steerage, as he warned them at least two minutes before the vessels came together.

Capt. Houldsworth of the Peters was recalled, and made the admission that the side lights on his boat were carried three feet above the hurricane deck, and were liable to be obstructed from view by passengers. He could not fix the damage to the Peters. Capt. Seaman said the damage to the Czarina amounted to $10,000.

SONNTAG WILL RUN. cision is expected in about ten days. Chief Engineer Miller of the Peters

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.-Thr ships bound for Pacific Coast ports from the Orient and New South Wales are considerably overdue, and it is thought in the cases of two of the ves-sels, there is little hope of their ever being heard from again. The vessels are the Laurel Bank, seventy-nine days out from Shanghai for Portland, Or.;

out from Shanghai for Portland, Or.; the Valkyrian. 100 days out from Newcastle, N. S. W., for Iquique, Chile, and the Samoena, fifty-eight days out from Nagasaki, for Astoria, Or.

Locally, reinsurance on the fleet, according to M. A. Newell's figures, has reached 90 per cent. on the Laurel Bank, 65 per cent. on the Valkyrian, and 40 per cent. on the Samoena. The Laurel Bank is not considered a good risk, nor is the Valkyrian. All of the overdue vessels are under the British flag.

Charles Rose Thought His Burro More Valuable Than Mexicans. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.,) Nov. 18.—In a celebrated murder case today in the District Court, the defendant, Charles Rose, would not employ counsel or permit the court to give him such. He defended himself, and the jury brought in a verdict of life impressement. in a verdict of life imprisonment.

Rose had $12,000 in bank. He murdered two Mexicans in cold ome months ago for stealing two some months ago for stealing two burros, and his only argument before the jury was that the value of the burros to him were of more value than the lives of the Mexicans to them. The jury stood four for murder, four for manslaughter and four for ac-quittal, finally agreeing on life im-prisonment. Rose now asks for a new trial

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ST. HELENA, Nov. 18. — Caspareoni was held for trial today on the charge of manslaughter. About two weeks ago, Leoni, hearing a noise out side his house at 1 o'clock in the morning, took a shotgun and went out. Seeing two men through the darkness, he aimed his gun, and as one of the men, named Higgins, iadvanced, he fired. Higgins died a few days later. Leoni claimed that the men had been stealing wine from his cellar, but both of them denied the charge.

FREQUENTER OF JAILS.

Brandreth Couldn't Keep Sobe When Out of a Cell. [ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN JOSE, Nov. 18.—The unfortunat Brandreth who died at Fresno yester day was well known here. He served several terms in the County Jail, and each time at his own request in order that he might get sober. He always claimed to be a relative of the big pill man, and his conduct here made every one believe his story to be true. Jailo Black said this afternoon that Brand Black said this afternoon that Brand-reth would certainly have died here from drink had not the jail authorities given him the best of care. When Brandreth was arraigned be-fore City Justice Gass for drunkenness he begged that he be given a long term in order that he might get sober.

BERLIIN, Nov. 18.—The news that Emperor William is to return home by a roundabout way without touching at Vienna has created a sensation in political circles, as it is interpreted as being a confirmation of the recent indications that the felations between Germany and Austria are less friendly than they have been. His Majesty's avoidance of Berlin is supposed to be due to his displeasure at the abandonment of the projected festal reception.
The authorities at Potsdam, however, are preparing to give the Emperor and Empress a brilliant welcome on their return home.

Dead Body in a Pool.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 18.—This afternoon some boys discovered the dead body of a man in a pool of the Guadalupe Creek, back of the Hyde Park track. After removal to the morgue an examination failed to show any wounds. There was no money in his pockets. The man had evidently been dead about twenty-four hours. His identity is unknown. An autopsy will be held tomorrow to determine whether poison or drowning caused the death.

The dead body of J. B. Groninger a wealthy ranchman of Terry, Ont., has been found on the Big Four tracks at Delaware, O. The remains, which were considerably mutilated, were identified by means of letters found near them. Subsequently Groninger's account book was found about two miles from the spot where the body was found. There is strong evidence that the man was murdered and his body placed on the railroad track. Groninger was returning home from New York, where he had sold a big lot of cattle, and had received a large sum of money, none of which was found on the body.

Oregon Prune Invasion.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 18.—San José grange is making a determined fight against the marketing of Oregon prunes in San José. Lately, it is charged, many Oregon prunes have been sold here and sent East as Santa Clara county prunes. While it is conceded that this year they are larger than the local prune, it is contended that they are greatly inferior in flavor and that they lack sugar. As a result, the local growers are making war on them. It is now said that the Santa Clara county dealers, or a majority of them, will refuse to handle Oregon prunes in the future.

SHIP ATALANTA LOST.

TWENTY-SEVEN MEN ONLY THREE ESCAPE ALIVE.

Vessel Was Bound From Ta-coma to South Africa With Wheat-Goes Ashore Off Alsea Bay, on the Coast of Oregon.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PORTLAND (Or.,) Nov. 18.-A special to the Oregonian from Yaquina, Or., says the British ship Atalanta, Capt. Charles McBride, from Tacoma to South Africa with wheat, was wrecked off Alsea Bay, sixteen miles south of Yaquina Bay, yesterday morning. She carried a crew of twen-ty-seven men, and all were drowned but three.

the attempt to eject him failed. Now Mr. Fiske threatens to sue the university.

The Aristolelian and Athena Literary societies of the University of Southern California held a joint open session yesterday afternoon. A number of the friends of the young people attended. W. A. River, presided and the following programme was rendered: College song, leader. Emily Walleln; reading, Clara Pennell; plano duet; Misses Edith Blen and Grace Creasenger; oration, "Ambition," A. O. Martin; vocal solo, Matthew Holmes; debate, "Resolved, that labor has done more for creative literature than inspiration," affirmative and negative, Charles J. Scholander; original story, Miss Wood; "Catastrophy in Song," C. J. Minman and C. E. D. Ballou; "Greek Life," Eleanor Seymour; piano solo, "Chariot Race from Ben Hur," Helen Davisson.

Hive No. 4, L.O.T.M., gave an entertainment last evening in Ryan's Hall, corner of Jefferson street and Wesley avenue. The literary programme was followed by dancing.

The Epworth Radiator, published by Rev. H. W. Waltz of University Place, is a new arrival in the newspaper field. The Atalanta sailed from Tacoma last Saturday with a cargo of 1753 tons of wheat for Cape Town, and her skipper had made a wager with the masters of the ships Earl of Dalhousie masters of the ships Earl of Dalhousie and Inberhorne in a race to the Cape of Good Hope. The log book at the life-saving station shows that Thursday morning, between midnight and 6 o'clock, the Cape Foulweather lighthouse was concealed by fog and heavy sheets of rain. The Atalanta was saling at a high rate of speed Thursday morning when she went on the bar. A few rocks in the trough of the waves, attended by a heavy setting on the bottom, caused her timbers to give before the men could reach the hatchway.

The jar of running on snapped the masts off as though they had been matches. The masts and rigging went over the side in a tangled mass like a forest before a gale. The breakers awept the after decks and pounded in the cabins. Those who escaped were on deck at the moment of the crash, and began to launch a lifeboat. While they were working with the davits a wave passed over the ship, tore the lifeboat loose and set it afloat. It was full of water, and the oars were gone. Several were in the boat at the time of its sudden release. All but two were washed overboard.

These two picked up a third, then in the surf. For three hours or more they were buffeted about until the storm cast them upon dry land. One of the surivivors stated that the captain steered close into Cape Foulweather and not seeing the lighthouse, supposed the vessel to be some distance from shore. This caused him to continue his southeast tack too long.

At 2 o'clock today the Atlanta lay about a mile off shore in a field of furfous breakers. Each hour a section of the vessel was seen to fall away and the timbers float toward the shore. The life-saving crew, although notified of the wreck soon after it occurred yesterday, were unable to reach the scene until this morning.

One of the survivors claims that the wreck was due to the carelessness of the captain, who paid for his folly with his life. They were racing with another vessel, and were keeping close in shore in order to get the advantage of the wind in tacking, and to make a shortcut to head the other vessel off. They were close in shore, and not seeing the light at Cape Foulweather, steered ahead until they struck the reef, about four miles below Alsea Bay, and about one mile and a half from shore, with such terrific force as to snap the masts off like toothpicks, carrying the rigging and everything with it. Two of the survivors made their way to a cabin, and swakening the occupants, started them in all directions for help. The farmers were very slow in notifying the life-saving station at

She was Miss Matilda Cass, daughter of the late Gen. Lewis Cass, who was for many years Governor of Michigan, where Matilda Cass was born. Gen. Cass, who was a veteran of the war of 1812, was Secretary of War in Jackson's Cabinet, was the Democratic candidate for President in 1848 (running against Zachary Taylor,) represented Michigan in the United States Senate, as well as having heen its Governor, and was Secretary of State in Buchanan's Cabinet, resigning his portfolio when the President refused to reinforce Fort Sumter. Gen. Cass was at one time Minister to France, and while he was in Paris his daughter Matilda married Henry Ledyard, then Secretary of the American Legation. This was nearly sixty years ago. Mr. Ledyard was a lawyer and came of distinguished stock. His mother, who was a Miss Livingston, was the daughter of the late Justice Brockholst Livingston of the Supreme Court of the United States, who was a son of William Livingston, Governor of New Jersey in the revolutionary war. in the United States Senate, as well as of New Jersey in the revolutionary war.

Henry Ledyard, who died one year ago, was a New Yorker by birth, but resided after his marriage at Newport, R. I., where the Ledyards still have a place. Her daughter, Mrs. Spencer Ledyard, lived with her abroad. She leaves three other children, Mrs. Francis W. Goddard of Colorado, Henry B. Ledyard, president of the Michigan Central Railway Company, and Lewis Cass Ledyard of the law firm of Garland and Ledyard. Mrs. Ledyard was a sister of the late Lewis Cass, ex-Minister to Rome. UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Squabble Over a Dairy - College Lieterary Societies.

A small tempest has been stirred up in the neighborhood adjoining Fortieth The trouble arose through an attempt on Mr. Wilson's part to cover with manure two of the three lots upon which he conducts his business. This was strongly objected to by David Fiske, who lives across the street, and finally Fiske had Wilson and Lloyd Harlow, a former partner, arrested for maintaining a nuisance.

Ing a nuisance.

The case came to trial before Justice Bryant of Bailona township. Wilson and Harlow evidently thinking that they would escape with a light fine, pleaded guilty, and the Justice thereupon fined Wilson $20 and Harlow $15. The funny part of the affair is that Harlow paid the $15, although he has nothing to do with the dairy at the present time, Wilson having bought out his share in the business: some time ago.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

United States Senator Tabor Says That It Should Now be Used.

"You can assist very much by carefully assorting and packing what is brought. Label every package. If two kinds are put in the same bag, place that which is less liable to be crushed in the bottom. Telephone or send to the office, between 10:30 and 12 o'clock on Wednesday, the number of one-horse wagons needed at each building to take contributions. Contributions will be turned over to Capt. J. A. Frazier of the Good Samaritan for distribution." Recent events showed that a camp is more dangerous than a battle. Not only in the army, but in ordinary life, more lives are lost by a heedless disregard of the beginpoor health than by all other causes combined. Dyspepsia or nervousness is absolutely inexcusable now. There is no more reason or a man or woman eating with poor appetite or sleeping poorly or suffering continually from neuralgia or rheumatism today than there is of his or her going without the necessities of life.

Every candid person who has dragged long under the depressing effects of nerve and brain exhaustion needs to take to heart the words of such unbiased persons as Senator Tabor, who cannot afford to attach their guarantee to anything they have not themselves investigated. DENVER (Colo..) Sept. 20, 1898.

wrestle with the pillow through the long hours of the night and rise in the morning wieste with the pinow through the long hours of the night and rise in the morning with haggard features and hollow eyes? If so, take advantage of the remarkable power of this greatest of all remedies for restoring strength.

Paine's celery compound calms and equalizes all the nervous tissues and induces the body to take on solid fiesh.

Nervous debility causes timidity, depression and lack of confidence in the struggle of life; whereas plenty of nervous force insures self-reliance, enterprise and prosperity. In untold number of cases the lack of success can easily be traced to a simple lack of nerve-force.

There is no better foundation for permanent good health of better preparation for coping with the hard work and taxing strain of life than rich, red, pure blood, and plenty of it, acquired by use of Paine's celery compound.

Fire at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE (Ky.,) Nov. 18.—Fire broke out at 2:15 a.m in the five-story building, No. 611 Main street, occupied by the William F. Merrill Chemical Company. The fire is now blazing fiercely in the upper stories, and, in view of the inflammable contents of the buildings, is liable to prove a disastrous one. Tons of water were poured on the flames. The entire stock of goods in the Renz, Bowles & Co. establishment is doomed. Fire and water are playing havoc with it. The estimated loss is about $75,000.

"The Bride-Elect," Sousa's new comic opera, will receive its first presentation in Chicago at the Columbia Theater during this coming week. Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger and E. B. Stevens, it is claimed, have expended more than $40.000 in the production of Mr. Sousa's opera, and will enlist more than 100 persons in the production, which will include, besides the criginal cast, a chorus of sixty, a full military band on the stage, and a ballet.

CURRENT HISTORY. Instructive Talk at the High School by Mrs. Lou V. Chapin.

Mrs. Lou V. Chapin gave an interesting and instructive talk at the High School yesterday afternoon on the subject of "Current History." This is a new departure in the Los Angeles and is interesting many of the schools, and is interesting many of the pupils.

The talk was given to the Parliamentary Club of the High School, and tary Club of the High School, and Mrs. Chapin spoke at length on the attitude of the powers in Germany, England, Russia, Turkey and the Far East. There was a large attendance of pupils, and several teachers were present.

Mrs. Chapin organized a Current History Club in the High School of Pasadena Thursday, and will continue to give these instructive talks weekly in the Los Angeles High School.

The Official Count.

The official count.

The official count of the ballots cast at the recent State and county election has been completed, the clerks for the Board of Supervisors finishing at 5 p. m. yesterday. The lists and tally sheets will be given to the experts to foot them this morning, which work will be completed some time today. It is not thought the result will vary a great deal from the unofficial totals published, as a careful watch has been kept by men employed by several of the candidates on the State tioket, with a view to helping out their respective parties. Particularly is this true regarding the count of ballots between Curry and Thompson. A man named Miller has been present all the time, in response to a telegram from Seth Mann from San Francisco, in which he says: "Watch the count closely for Curry and Thompson. It's close." How close it is in Los Angeles will be known today.

tion on their part being that it went into Officer Ritch's pockets. Attorneys Appel and Phibbs openly declare that it is a common complaint that Officer Ritch has been in the habit of raiding Chinese games and carrying off the money in sight, without making any arrest, or ever accounting in any manner for the money taken. They declared during the course of the hearing yesterday that he would not have made any complaint in this case had his hand not been forced to it when he saw that the Chinese were taking steps to make him account for the carrying away of their cash.

of Money Traveled From Chinatown to the Police

Whether Ah Gwong and Wong Woo or Police Officer J. R. Ritch were on erday was hard to judge from the course the proceedings took. Ostensi-bly Gwong and Woot were being tried for playing the unlawful game of fan tan; but, apparently, Officer Ritch was defending himself against the charge of having seized and appropriated to his own use money belonging to the Chinamen.

Some of the declarations made by the attorneys for the Chinese and part of the testimony given bordered on the sensational. If there is any foundation whatever for the allegations made in open court, reflecting on Officer Ritch, there undoubtedly are grounds in open court, reflecting on Officer Ritch, there undoubtedly are grounds for an investigation by the Police Commission, if not by the grand jury. It is the avowed purpose of the lawyers who are carrying on the crusade against alleged abuses of police authority in Chinatown to have an investigation by both. With this end in view, they employed Court Reporter A. E. Bagley to take a stenographic copy of all the testimony, which is to be written up and submitted to the Police Commission, and the grand jury, in case it is considered of sufficient gravity to warrant such a course.

As the attack on Officer Ritch impugns not only his acts, but also those of other officers and the general usages of the police department in relation to the handling of moneys and property seized in connection with arrests for alleged or actual commissions of crime, the importance of the proceedings in the case of the People vs. Ah Gwong and Wong Woot is apparent. Becoming impressed with the broadness of the inquiry that was opening up, the prosecution, at the afternoon session, also came provided with an official stenographer to take notes, Harry Johnson, private secretary to Chief Glass, acting in that capacity.

WAS IT FAN TAN 2.

During the hearing yesterday, which lasted nearly all day and was then not concluded, no evidence, except the unsupported testimony of Officer Ritch, was forthcoming to prove that Ah Gwong and Wong Woot were guilty of playing fan tan. To be sure, Officer Ritch has been on duty long enough in Chinatown to have learned to recognize fan tan when he sees it, and he solemnly testified that he did see it last Saturday night. He detailed how he scaled a two-story building and from a perch on the roof watched a game of fan tan in progress in a room on the third floor of an adjacent building. From his position, he said, he could plainly see, through the gauze window curtain, that the game was fan tan, and after satisfying himself on this point he proceeded to gain ingress and put an end to the unlawful sport. The officer then described how he forced his way into the building at great hazard to himself; how the sportive heathen raged and fied in consternation when he appeared in their midst and surprised them in their unlawful act; how he selzed the gambling paraphernalia, including a bag of money which the cashier tried hastily to hide away, and how the cashier. Ah Gwong, himself, got away while the officer was gathering up the money and implements used in gambling, to be used as evidence. Wong Woot, the dealer in the game, was not so fortunate. He was held as a prisoner until the officer reached Lon Ark Fawn's office with his bundle of evidence, when he turned him loose until a more convenient time when he could arrest both Ah Gwong and Wong Woot on a warrant from the court.

With the paraphernalia he had captured, Officer Ritch, for the benefit of the court, gave a practical illustration of the game of fan-tan as he understood it and as he alleged he saw the defendants play. Counsel for the defense disputed that the illustration of the game of fan-tan as he understood it and as he alleged he saw the defendants play. Counsel for the defendant play. THE BAG OF MONEY.

Officer Ritch having finished his testimony as to the character of the game played, the real excitement of the day commenced. It was in relation to the money which Ritch was alleged to have seized. The testimony brought out on cross-examination in regard to the amount and disposition of the coin glaringly exposed the reckless manner in which some police officers are wont to handle the money and property of others which falls, or is intrusted, in their hands for safe-keeping. It showed that the slip-shod, not to say unlawful, method pursued in this case, at least, placed the officer in the light of being open to suspicion of having appropriated some of the money to his own use. Had the Chinese conspired to place him in a position where they could make innuendoes that would besmirch his reputation, they could not have succeeded in making a better opportunity to do so than the officer himself, through his lack of discretion, has given them.

Ah Gwong and Wong Woot allege that there was $95.30 in the bag which officer Ritch took away from them. When the bag was opened and counted in the presence of the court yesterday morning, it contained only $50.60. The Chinese and their attorneys aver that the difference between the two amounts has been lost or stolen, the insinua-THE BAG OF MONEY.

places a Switch of the Traction Company, at Lake Street and Avenue, by One o Their Own-Mr. Lamme's Indig

Heretofore the two street car com-panies of this city were merely con-temporaries in a particular line of busiplaced a switch at that crossing that would permit of their cars going over automatically. The Los Angeles Railway Company's cars, on the contrary, could not go by unless the switch were raised by the hand, and the conductors of the line had to do it. It was not only an inconvenient proceeding, but game, and put a wrapping of brown paper, tied with a stout cord, around the whole. He then started out with the bundle and met Officer McClain, whom he asked to suggest a safe place to leave the outfit till he got ready to report off at 1 o'clock. McClain recommended A. Caldera's saloon. The package was left there until shortly after midnight, when he and McClain called for it. Ritch reported off duty at 1 o'clock by telephone, leaving the precious bundle in care of Officer McClain, who gave it in charge of the cook at Boone's restaurant till he got ready to report off, at 4 o'clock in the morning. On the way to the station McClain met Officer Murray and handed the bundle to him to take to the station. Murray turned it over to the police clerk then on duty. The latter stored it away behind the counter in the office, where it remained till Sunday afternoon, when Ritch transferred it to his locker in only an inconvenient proceeding, but served to lose time.

According to C. M. Lechner, the track foreman for the Los Angeles Rallway Company, the Traction Company promised to alter the switch within five days after it was placed. They waited a year for the fulfillment of this alleged promise, and as it failed to materialize they took things into their own hands. Yesterday afternoon Lechner took a gang of men to the place and had the Traction Company's switch torn up. He replaced it by one belonging to his employers, and which would serve their purpose better. But before this was accomplished, there was a genuine hullabalu, and several hundred persons were treated to an amusing diversion from life's daily routine. The first Traction Company conductor that saw Lechner's gang of workmen with plck and shovels and crowbars, at the crossing opposite Westlake Park, knew they would not be there to do his employers any, good. He accordingly telephoned the Traction Company office.

While the latter company was getting men to send to the place, Lechner already had the old switch torn out and Ritch denied that he was requested to count the money in the presence of the Chinese or any one else, or that a receipt was demanded of him. He could see nothing unusual in the careless manner in which the money had been bundled up and passed along from hand to hand. He did not tell officer McClain or any one how much money was in the bundle.

Mr. Appel, during his cross-examination of Officer Ritch, tried to show by innuendo that the officer was flush with coin after having had his fingers in the sack. men to send to the place. Lechner al-ready had the old switch torn out and When E. H. Lamme, the attorney for the Traction Company, arrived with some men, Lechner was putting the Los Angeles Railway Company's switch in place. Attorney Lamme is a bit inventive himself, but his ingenuity sisted that it was very material in that he proposed to show that after the time that Ritch had said he had left the money at Caldera's saloon, he had gold in his pocket and got a $20 pleee changed. The question was allowed but the witness denied that any such transaction had occurred.

Ritch was kept on the witness stand till the noon hour, and was not excused until he had been subjected to much badgering as to his manner of dealing with Chinese, and with frequent threats of having him summond before the grand jury.

OTHER WITNESSES. OTHER WITNESSES. At the afternoon session "Judge' Bean, the police clerk on duty last Saturday night, was examined as to the entries on the blotter for that day, to show that there was no record of the arrest of either of the defendants at that time, or entry of money taken from them. Angeles company's car was

A. Caldera testified briefly as to the leaving of the bundle by Officer McClain. He had no knowledge of its inroads on the contents of the sack of coin between the time of its seizure and the time it was turned into court yesterday morning, Ritch was closely cross-examined as to the disposition he made of it. The testimony showed that it reached the Police Station in a very round-about manner. In the first place, Ritch declared, he took the pelf into a room in the rear of a Chinese restaurant, where he counted it all over by himself and found that there was exactly $50.60. He then returned the money to the sack, wrapped the sack up in the green cloth that he had taken off the gambling table along with other appurtenances of the asked.

The question was objected to by Deputy District Attorney Chambers as being immaterial, but Mr. Appel insisted that it was very material in contents.

Officer McClain was called and told of his connection with the case as already related. He said Ritch simply told him that there was a fan-tan layout in the bundle. He did not say anything about it containing any money. He was present, however, when a Chinaman approached Ritch during the night and asked how much money he had taken. The Chinaman said he had heard there was $110, but Ritch refused to answer. The Chinaman who asked the question was not one of the defendants.

George Lem, an Americanized Chinaman, who bears an ancient grudge man, who bears an ancient grudge against Officer Ritch, testified as to the efforts he made to help the defendants to ascertain last Saturday night how much money Ritch would acknowledge to have carried off, and at the Police Station for the purpose, but no one there knew anything about it.

WONG WOOT'S STORY.

The last witness of the situation, but they were there to keep the peace only, and in spite of Attorney Lamme's entreaties, they would not dictate what should be done.

The matter was finally temporarily settled; the cars proceeded on their accustomed way, the, policemen returned to the station, and the switch as it always lad according to Los Angeles Railway Company's ideas. In the future the Traction company's conductors will have to turn the switch.

Attorney Lamme, speaking for the Traction company, said:

"It is not true that we had promised to have that we had promised to have the switch so fixed that it is usually the crossover at the east end of Lake street, they could have the switch. But the crossing is at the west be sufficiently and the street.

"I consider this a pure and unmittigated attempt to bulldoze, in the invariable manner of the S. P., and the police department is in it. This is rid-ing over everything that is of law and right.

WONG WOOT'S STORY. The last witness of the day was Wong Woot, one of the defendants. He was the dealer in the alleged fantan game. Woot gave a graphic pantomime descriptive of the manner in which Officer Ritch made his famous raid. He said the officer broke into the place with fierce curses. He grabbed Ah Gwong by the throat, threw him to the floor, trampled on him, and jerked the bag of money out of his pocket. When requested to count the money and give a receipt for it, Ritch flourished his revolver in Gwong's face and said "You can't fool me." He applied the foulest and most profane epithets to Ah Gwong, and threw him out of the room. He also cursed the witness, and refused to count the money or receipt for it, although repeatedly requested to do so. Wong Woot also gave an exhibition of the game played, which he said was not fan-tan, but dominoes.

Woot said a banquet was being held that night, and each member of the club had paid his pro rata toward defraying the expenses. The money thus collected constituted the contents of the bag, which the officer confiscated. Woot was book-keeper of the association, and he read from his account-book an itemized account of the receipts of the evening. These footed up $105. Out of this amount $5.85 had been paid for wine, 75 cents for watermelon seeds, $1 for fruits and $2.10 cigars, leaving a balance of $95.30 in the treasury, which was the amount Ritch carried off.

As the defense had a number of other witnesses yet to be heard, the trial was, at 5 o'clock, adjourned till 3 o'clock this afternoon, when an effort will be made to conclude it. The last witness of the day was Wong Woot, one of the defendants.

Here they went into conference, and were still there at 3:30 o'clock, when a Times reporter called.

I. W. Heliman was seen, and he talked freely of the object of the visit. He said:

"When we bought the road, it was with the intention of putting it in better shape as rapidly as possible. Plans have been formed since then, and everything is ready to put them into execution.

"There is a good deal to be done. Much work is now under way in removing the old cable kronduits from the streets, ballasting the roadbed and laying ties and rails.

"The new plans involve much more outlay than even this work. The whole system is to be overhauled wherever it is necessary to put it in the best order. We have secured home franchises for extensions, and these are to be made practically available for the convenience of the public.

"In short, it is the intention of the directors to give Los Angeles as perfect a system of street railway service as any city in the country has.

"I cannot even give a guess as to what the outlay will be, but it will run into large sums of money."

breakwater, arrived Thursday in San Francisco. The rest of the fleet of barges needed for the great contract are still tall pine trees in the forests of Oregon, as was the pioneer barge until two weeks ago.

John H. Anunsen, superintendent for work on the San Pedro Harbor, has just come south from San Francisco, and today will go to San Clemente to test the rock there as to its fitness for breakwater-building.

"People wonder," said Mr. Anunsen, yesterday, "why progress is so slow in building the harbor. It is because it is impossible to procure barges on this Coast. We have to go into the forests, fell the trees, hew the logs and build the barges ourselves.

"The barge which has just been brought down from Oregon to San Francisco carried derricks, tools of various kinds, and a quantity of lumber to be used in building bunkhouses, blacksmith shops, sheds and other structures at Clemente. I expect the barge to reach San Pedro by Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. We had a narrow escape from losing our first barge. It was caught in the region of Coos Bay by the skirts of a storm. If the barge has been nearer the storm center it would probably have been destroyed, for it was one of the worst storms seen on the Coast for years."

Mr. Anunsen will be accompanied on his trip to San Clemente by several men. They will open up the rock quarries and procure specimens for testing. The rock will be submitted to the government engineers, and unless it satisfies them the San Clemente quarries will be abandoned and rock brought from some other point. Mr. Anunsen will return from the island about the middle of next week.

Although not a fragment of rock has been deposited where the breakwater is to be placed, it does not follow that work is not being pushed with all possible speed. Already over 1150,000 has been spent in preperations, and Mr. Anunsen estimates that before work begins o

Those receiving gold or silver medals must bear the expense of gilding them and the engraving. Those receiving bronze medals are put to the expense of engraving only. John Sautell has on exhibit at the Chamber of Commerce a Winter Pearmain apple, weighing nineteen ounces, and having a circumference of thirteen inches. This apple was raised on the Simi ranch, which is usually noted for its sheep and grain. Secretary Wiggins regrets that the exhibit was not received in time to be sent to the Omaha exposition, where, he says, it would have taken a gold medal.

BETTER GO SLOW. The San Francisco Chronicle, in common with some other newspapers of the State, finds fault with the Australian ballot system, and is urging upon the incoming Legislature the exdiency of amending the law in some important particulars. Speaking of what it terms the "admitted defects" of the present law, the Chronicle says: "The chief of these is the necessity imposed on the voter of placing a cross opposite the name of each candidate voted for. The evidence is abundant that at least 80 per cent. of those who go to the polls do not desire to avail themselves of the privilege of 'scratching.' Persons of this kind should be afforded an opportunity to follow their inclination to vote the 'straight ticket,' without being subjected to the annoyance of being com-pelled to pick out the candidates of the party to which they belong. This ork has become something more than a mere annoyance through the practice of naming parties so as to confuse the voter. In the late election an organization known as 'Citizens' Repub-lican' figured, which, no doubt, caused s of many votes to regular Republican candidates. The distinction between the two parties was too trifling to challenge the attention of voters, and it is reported that the diminished vote for school directors in this city was largely due to the fact in this city was largely due to the fact that many persons lost their choice because they put crosses opposite more than twelve names, being led to do so, no doubt, by the supposition that they were acting within their rights in voting for every Republican on the

That provision of the law to which the Chronicle particularly refers as an 'admitted defect" is by many intellfgent and well-informed persons regarded as being, instead of a defect one of the wisest provisions of the law. The Legislature will do well to d slowly in considering the reneel of this provision; for it is not improbable that a careful investigation would show that public sentiment so far from being in favor of its repeal, is strongly against it. Without much doubt the professional politicians of all parties are in favor of repealing this part of the law, for the plan proposed by the Chronicle would schemes of men who make politics a business. But, fortunately for the inerests of the public at large, the professional politicians are not in a majority, and the laws of the land are not framed exclusively for their benefit nor entirely at their behest.

The provision of the present law which requires the voter to place a mark opposite the name of each candidate for whom he desires to vote has much to commend it, and is in no true sense of the word objectionable. It affords an ideal method by which the independent voter can express his wishes, and at the same time it comballot more carefully than he would otherwise be obliged to do. Every voter should at least know the names candidates for whom he votes But if the voter be permitted to vote the pains to inform himself as to the nel of the ticket which he votes. nd will not even know the names of ot retain their vitality, but would quickly die of dry rot. There is no need to change the pres ent method of voting. Under it every voter can register his choice of candidates without difficulty, and in a very short space of time. The law permits voter to remain in the booth ten minutes if necessary. Not one voter in a thousand requires so much time. The majority of voters occupy only from one to three minutes in preparing their ballots. A voter who objects to devoting from one to three or even ten minutes to the discharge of one of the highest functions of citizenship certainly has some queer ideas of his duties to the State. Under the present apportionment of precincts there is no crowding, but every voter is afforded all the time necessary to mark

As for the counting of votes, what is needed is an amendment of the law which will permit the counting to begin soon after the voting begins and to proceed simultaneously with it, so that the ballots will all have been counted within one or two hours, at the most, after the polls are closed This plan is entirely feasible, and with its adoption will disappear the strongest objection to the present system, which with a few minor excepions, is eminently satisfactory.

SPANISH ROTTENNESS.

Some interesting facts in regard to the methods of Spanish rule are coming out, since the Americans obtained control of Cuba. Referring to disorders that have broken out among th Spanish troops in Havana, a recent dispatch from that place says that, or some time past, an uprising of the roops in consequence of the non receipt of their pay, has been feared. Not only is their pay owing for months, and in some cases for years, but the reserve pay of the soldiers, their savings since the date of their enlistment, which were looked upon by them as sacred, has been approriated or stolen, as the men say, by the government, which now turns is impossible to estimate, but it is to a vote of the people known it aggregates millions. This is what has been precipitating riots. causing mutiny, impelling the men to nsurbordination, and which may yet give rise to further widespread disturbances in the island.

There may have been nations which have been as thoroughly rotten as Spain has shown itself to be, but there are surely none which could exeed her in this respect.

There is no reason to doubt that, as THE TIMES has frequently stated, this important improvement will, undoubtedly, be foldistinctly favor the furtherance of the lowed or attended by other important government work, such as the construction of naval docks and fortifica-

In this connection, an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, published in THE TIMES of Friday, is of special interest. It states that, in his annual report to the Secretary of the Navy, Chief Endicott, of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, makes a strong point for the necessity of ample dock facilities, especially on the Pacific Coast. The report comments upon the fact that no battleship or heavydraught cruiser has yet approached the wharves at Mare Island, and say it remains to be demonstrated that this location as a navy yard was a fortunate one. Attention is called to the fact that the Oregon was compelled to go 800 miles north to Puget Sound to be docked. While the govfor them in a lump—a job lot, so to ernment could construct ample dock facilities on San Francisco Bay, this would still be 450 miles north of the southern boundary of the United States, where it is quite as important to have a naval station as on the northern boundary, at Puget Sound. Therefore, it is recommended that a board of experienced officers be directed to give attention to the establishment of such a station, near the southern limits of the Pacific Coast.

The initiative steps for a system of university extension, designed to open to the adults of Southern California opportunities for taking up the studies opportunities for taking up the studies ordinarily taken in high schools and universities, were taken last night at Simpson Tabernacie. The meeting had not been well advertised, and as a consequence the attendance was not nearly so large as it ought to have been.

nearly so large as it ought to have been.

The work thus started is under the direction of a board of directors containing representatives of the State Normal schools at Los Angeles and San Diego, the University of Southern California, Occidental College, Throop Polytechnic Institute, and Pomona College. This board has been formed as the result of a canvass of the situation presented in Southern California during the past three months, and suring this same canvass a fund of $1200 has been raised to start the work of the coming year.

Hon. Enoch Knight presided at the meeting last evening, and made a brief address, after which he introduced Dr. Van Liew of the State Normal School of this city, who spoke of the history of the university movement from its inception in 1867, when James Stewart of Cambridge University began work in the north of England on much the same lines that have been followed in various countries in recent years.

"On the one hand this movement

'On the one hand this movement reached the educated men and women of England, and on the other hand it or England, and on the other hand it reached the laboring man and gave him an insight into higher studies," he said. "In 1875 similar work was taken up by the University Society of London, and the University of Oxford soon took up the same work, which spread throughout England, until there were, in 1893, 80,000 people in that country who were pursuing the courses of study outlined by the leaders of the movement. From England the movement extended to the colonies, to Ireland and Scotland, and finally to foreign countries, France, Germany and Belgium having made big headway. In this country the first presentation of the subject was made by Prof. Adams of the Johns Hopkins University, and as a result of this presentation the librarian of the Buffalo Public Library took up the work in that city. The Chautauqua system followed, and in addition to the methods followed before that time it introduced the regular courses of lectures. The mext important step was made in New York, when Seth T. Stewart brought Princeton, Yale and Columbia universities to unite on a course of work. Other States followed in the same line, and finally the American Society of University Extension was organized, to bring about harmony of action through the country and assist in the spreading of the work. This idea has been so thoroughly inculcated that there is now an earnest feeling on the part of the people who had not the opportunity of acquiring a liberal eudcation in their youths that they must have something corresponding to university education. The colleges are taking the lead in the work, not because the professors hope to get anything out of the people who had not the colleges are taking the lead in the work, not because the professors hope to get anything out of the people who had not the because the professors hope to get anything out of the people who had not the because the professors hope to get anything out of the people who had not the because the professors hope to get anything out of the people who had the professors hope to reached the laboring man and gave him an insight into higher studies," he that they must have something corresponding to university education. The colleges are taking the lead in the work, not because the professors hope to get anything out of it for themselves, but because they wish the broader view of life to be thus accuired by themselves, and because they are anxious to have a clearer idea prevalent of the advantages of education."

Prof. Robert E. Hieronymus, Prof. Robert E. Hieronymus, who has been appointed the agent of the university extension movement for Southern California, outlined the work which it is proposed to introduce here. He said: "It is important that it be understood that this movement is not designed to ever take the place, nor even equal, the work of the university, but rather to give to those who have not the privileges of university life the best that is attainable by them. It is possible that people get too high an idea from the name generally chosen, and for that reason, and because there and for that reason, and because there are really no fully organized universities in Southern California, the name lected for the society in Southern Cali fornia is the Educational Extension As ociation, under which it is possi sociation, under which it is possible to do work not regularly in line with that of universities. It is proposed to get the ablest men and women of this section to aid in the work, and to bring from the East some of the men of national reputation to lecture systematically through the towns of this bring from the East some of the men of national reputation to lecture systematically through the towns of this section. The workers in this movement will visit the various towns in the seven southern counties, deliver lectures, hold examinations and pass on the work of the members, and will aim to transfer to the students the air of university life. The cost will probably be about $1 for a course of six lectures, or $2.50 for three such courses. Some books will be required, but the public libraries will be of great assistance in this line. Though there are 600 members of the American Society of University Extension in this city, there has been a feeling that the movement might take firmer hold in the smaller towns, though there should be a strong circle in this city."

President Davis of the Board of Education of the city was then called upon, and he made a brief but rather startling address. He said that in going over the figures in the reports of the schools for the year, about to be issued, he was struck with the fact that of the pupils who start in the primary grades, 48 per cent. have dropped out at the close of the third year, when the pupils are of an average age of 13 years, 69 per cent, have dropped out, showing that less than a third of the children in this city continue their studies beyond the age of 13 years, they have in their lives but little to ennoble them, and they are forced into what is but little better than mere animal existence. He thought the movement should have features which would come down to the needs of these unfortunates, even to the teaching of cooking and the lessons of health.

The leaders of the work then retired to prepare a list of names of sons of health.

The leaders of the work then tired to prepare a list of names those who would make a good comn tee for outlining and initiating work in this city, and when they work in this city, and when they re-ported, the names were ratified by the audience, the committee selected be-ing composed of Miss Wadleigh of the Public Library; Miss Nancy Foster, a well-known teacher in a private school; Prof. B. M. Davis of the Normal School; J. A. Foshay, Superintendent of Schools, and Prof. Guy Wadsworth of Occidental College.

Pacific Express Company's ex-Auditor Charged With Embesslement.
[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]
OMAHA (Neb.,) Nov. 18.—Free Bechel, who for eighteen years was chief auditor of the Pacific Express Company, has been placed on trial for embezzling the funds of that company. Erastus Young, auditor of the Union Pacific Railroad, who has succeeded Bechel long enough to make an investi

Bechel long enough to make an investigation, which he alleges developed that about $150,000 of the company's funds had been squandered, furnishes the evidence for the prosecution.

The first witness to testify was one of the clerks under Bechel. He testiged to forcing balances frequently, one time adding $20,000 to make the books balance. He said he did this under instructions from the assistant auditor, and understood this money was used for legislative purposes at Lincoln. These irregularities had been going on for ten years, he said. The case will continue a week.

NEAR AND YET SO FAR.

THAT LONG-SOUGHT AGREEMENT WITH THE CANADIANS

ering Sea Dispute May Be Settled by Wiping Out the Seal Industry, but Reciprocity is a Stone Wall Yet to Be Surmounted-A Com missioner's Wish.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 .- Member of the Anglo-American Americans and Canadians, expressed the hope today that the commission would complete its labors before th Christmas holidays, but they are not willing to state that a treaty will be ramed covering the many subjects o difference between the United States and Canada. Greater progress has een made than is generally under stood, and a draft of some of the arti-cles of the proposed treaty has been submitted by sub-committees and tentatively approved. This, however covers the minor questions, and the mportant subjects of the North important subjects of the North Atlantic fisheries, reciprocity and Bering Sea still remain open.

While the commission treats all statements regarding its work as unauthorized, yet it is understood by those acquainted with its work that the questions of border immigration, mining rights, lake fisheries and the Alaskan-Canadian boundary have been found less difficult of solution than found less difficult of solution than Alaskan-Canadlan boundary have been found less difficult of solution than was expected, and that a basis of agreement on these subjects is in sight, if not actually determined upon. Technically, however, nothing is done until the last act of the commission is performed, so that these and all other subjects may remain open to the end. As to the Bering Sea, the belief prevails that a settlement on both sides will be reached, and the fact that the officials, one a Canadian and another an American, are at Victoria, where an inventory is making of the Bering fleet, leads to the belief that a settlement may be made on the basis ettlement may be made on the basis of wiping out the industry by giving the Canadians some equivalent for capital invested. A recent off capital invested. A recent official document places the Bering Sea fleet at thirty, but these are small schooners, none of them above 100 tons.

Reciprocity and the Atlantic fisheries continue to be the most stubborn questions before the commission. On reciprocity the commissioners do not express themselves in sanguine terms. The subject is still before a subcommittee, which, however, reports when an agreement is reached, and the full committee approves what has been done. There are so many articles on a tariff schedule that the discussions have not yet been productive of many agreements on specific articles or agreements on specific articles or groups of articles. Thus far the dis-cusion has been rather free and open, articles being considered as they were called up by individual members. While the abrogation of the British preferential tariff is considered by some of the American commissioners as a sine qua non to any reciprocity agreement, it is said this view has no been submitted in the form of an ultimatum, and that the issues on that point are yet to come. As indicating the liberal view prevailing among the American commissioners, one of them the liberal view prevailing among the American commissioners, one of them said today that he wished American merchants could be brought to realize the futility of shutting Canadian goods from our markets, when the main result was to force these goods into Buitish markets, where they competed with our goods at a much greater advantage than they could get in the New York or American markets. To his judgment it was to our advantage to compete with Canadian goods on our own grounds rather than to go across the ocean and meet them in competition.

The commission held its usual session, beginning at 11 o'clock today. The joint session was brief, and the commission adojurned until Tuesday at commission adojurned until Tuesday at 11 a.m. The two sides held separate sessions during the afternoon, and most of the time until Tuesday will be given to these separate meetings. The sole subject considered today was reciprocity. It is understood the item of live animals is receiving special attention, the traffic in horses, cattle and other live animals being considerable across the border.

The prospect of an early settlement of the Bering Sea question was improved by the receipt of word that the two officials who have been making an appraisal of the value of the Canadian salling fleet, have completed

Canadian sailing fleet, have completheir labors, and are now on tway to Washington.

Desultory Firing in Every Section Pana-Families Leave Town.

PANA (Ill.,) Nov. 18.—Desultory firing in every section of the city con-tinued throughout the night. The tertinued throughout the night. The terrorized residents huddled in groups, which were guarded by heads of families, heavily armed. Quite a number of families left the city and spent the night in the country with friends. C. H. Heath, an ex-railroad man, whose home is in Flatham, the negro district, was fired upon by the blacks and himself and family were driven to shelter in the country. The blacks claimed shots were fired at their homes from Heath's yard, a statement which he denies.

A number of Troop B were kept on the alert all night, but accomplished little. A colored union miner reported to the police that a white man had been killed in the Flatham district. Officers Smith and Lee, accompanied by the negro, started for the scene. They were met by Capt. Butler, the militia commander, who told the officers it was unsafe for them to enter the Flatham district. Capt. Butler refused to send a guard to accompany the officers. orized residents huddled in

HAWAIIAN GOVERNMENT

MORE LIBERAL FORM TO BE FAV-ORED THAN WAS EXPECTED.

May Have a Representative in the House, With a Vote-Federal Government Not Much Altered. Suffrage Based on Education and Property Qualifications.

IA. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.] CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—A special to the Tribune from Washington says it is probable that the report of the Hawaiian Commission will favor a more liberal form of government for the islands than has generally be expected. The members beyon favorably consider. The members have favorably considered a proposition to give the islands a Representative in the House with a vote, in which regard he would rank a Representative in the House with a vote, in which regard he would rank with the delegates from Arizona. New Mexico and Oklahoma, who have the privilege of taiking, but not the right of voting.

The government suggested for the islands will, in all probability, be an advance on the present organized Territories, but of course will not contemplate statehood. Several members of the commission go to the extent of believing that Hawaii should have representation in the Senate, though probably without a vote. This, feature, however, may not appear in the report. The distance of the islands from the seat of government necessitates the granting of more power for local government than is given to the present organized Territories, but the Governor and othed important officers will, of course, be appointed in Washington. Hawaii, having come into the Union by treaty and not by conquest, there will be no military government, as in the case of Porto Rico and the Philippines, but a civil power will be created from the start. In a general way, the courts and ordinary machinery of the Federal government will be extended to the islands without much alteration, but provision will probably be made for a certain degree of local control of taxation and expenditures. There will be a suffrage based upon education of taxation and expenditures. There will be a suffrage based upon education and property qualifications, and the members of the commission believe they have evolved a system of colonial gov-ernment which will reserve full power to the President and Congress, and at the same time prove sufficiently elastic to give the governing classes in the isl-ands control of local improvements and the direction of colonial affairs. When the Hawaiian Commission left when the Hawaiian Commission lett this country the President instructed them to keep in mind the possessions acquired by the war, and the govern-ment which will be recommended by the Sandwich Islands, will serve as a model for that of the Philippines and Porto Rico.

Test the Constitutionality of Federal Tax on State Bank Issues
[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

ATLANTA (Ga.,) Nov. 18.—The House of Representatives has passed a bill providing for a test of the consti-tutionality of the Federal 10 per cent. tax on State bank issues. The bill pro-vides that a commission consisting of the Treasurer, Comptroller and Gov-ernor of the State shall issue circulaternor of the State shall issue circulating currency notes to the extent of 75 per cent. of its capital stock to any bank applying for the same. These notes will then be used as ordinary legal tender, and if the government prosecutes the bank or attempts to collect the 10 per cent. tax, the Aftorney-General of the State is to appeal the case to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18.-The Board of Public Works today decided to sell the interest of the State of Maryland the interest of the State of Maryland in the famous Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. This interest has cost the State in one way or another about $25,000,000, but its present value is indeterminate, as it is now in the hands of receivers. It is understood that today's action was taken for the purpose of enabling the Baltimore and Ohio reorganization managers to obtain a title to the property, and to use it in connection with the present system.

FRIDAY MORNING CLUB. Able Address by President Edwards

On Manual Training. The Friday Morning Club rooms were thronged with an intellectual gather-ing yesterday morning to hear the ad-dress by Prof. W. A. Edwards, president of Throop Polytechnic Institute,

The subject was "The Problems of Social and Civic Education and Manual Training," and was followed by dis-

Social and Civic Education and Manual Training," and was followed by discussion.

Prof. Edwards opened his talk by saying that the basis of manual training is the unity of man's nature and the unity of the mind. Mechanical knowledge is very important, and certain brain areas are developed only by corresponding physical activity. Physical action is psychical.

The speaker referred to the influence of the act on the thought. The deed helps one to understand the thought, because thought without deed is incomplete. The thought is an embryo. Deed is objective, and is beyond correction, and has more serious consequences than thought. Only in our deeds do we fully understand our thoughts. Deed influences the thought. Parents should want their boys to learn business methods in school, and not leave school in order to learn something practical. Manual training teaches the seriousness of blunders and adds imagination.

The incidental benefits derived from manual training are: Sympathy with labor, easier discipline, physical health, keeps the boys in school, trains in system, independence and self-rellance.

At the close of Prof. Edward's interesting talk C. A. Kunou, supervisor of manual training in the public schools of this city, made a short talk on the same subject, after which many of the club members antered in the discussion, giving some of their experiences with their children, and asking advice regarding matters brought out in the subject of the day.

The purchases of sites for the new engine-houses, for which the city will expend upward of $60,000, may not be made for more than a month. Justice Young held Joe Hunter to answer the murder charge in the Su-perior Court yesterday, and the first stage in what promises to be a most stage in what promises to be a most sensational trial was passed. The defense put in no testimony at all, and Mr. Jones very cleverly attempted to throw the onus of that omission upon the court. It is very unlikely that the defendant will be brought to trial before the new year, and if not, the law officers who will prosecute it will be other than those now in the District Attorney's office.

Board of Public Works Decides to Investigate a Franchise.

The application of the Los Angeles Fraction Company for a franchise for the extensions of their lines west Eleventh street to Hoover, was con-sidered yesterday by the Board of Pub-lic Works, to whom it had been re-ferred at the last meeting of the City

In the interests of the company several attorneys appeared. Among them were Messrs. Lamme, Gibson and Call. Several property-owners along the line of the proposed extension of the lines were also present, and there was no-body who offered any objections to the granting of the franchise.

The necessity for immediate action by the board was pointed out to its members, the petitioners contending that the longer the delay at this season, the longer time would be required to complete the work. All the attorneys present made addresses to the board, the general wish of them being that immediate action be taken. This did not satisfy the members of the board, however, and it was finally decided to take the matter under advisement and report at such a time as the investigation of the matter had been completed.

The legal questions involved in the matter will be submitted to the City

Collections of Taxes Almost Make the Funds Have a Balance. City Auditor T. E. Nichols yesterda made an apportionment of $30,000 among the funds of the city from the money that has been collected since the apportionment of $50,000 was made several days ago. This division among the funds of this amount will place several of them with balances on the right side of the account, which they have not had for two months. As the collections of taxes continue these apportionments will be made from time to time. As the last week for the payment of taxes is next week, it is probable that apportionments will be made almost every day.

It is necessary that the petition contain a certain percentage of the vote cast at the last general municipal election.

In order to secure the signatures of the requisite percentage of the voters a number of copies of the petition have been placed in the hands of a number of property-owners in that section, who are interested in the admission of the suburb to the city. Nearly a score of these petitions are out, and they have been signed freely by the city voters. The members of the Seventh Regiment at Camp Pratt, who belong voters. The members of the Seventh Regiment at Camp Pratt, who belong to the Los Angeles companies, have signed the petitions to a man, and this makes nearly three hundred signatures that have been secured in that place alone. The reason they were relieved from duty was that they had engaged in a fight at the engine-house, in which the captain is said to have attacked Springer with a hammer, striking him on the head and nearly killing him. The men had had a dispute about politics. In the Police Court yesterday the case was continued, and it is almost certain that the investigation that the Board of Fire Commissioners will make will also be continued next week make will also be continued next week until after the case has been settled in

The acceptance of the bid of J. Hein to improve Staunton avenue between Ninth and Fourteenth streets was also recommended. His bid was 80 cents per lineal foot for grading and graveling; 28 cents per foot for curb, 8% cents per square foot for sidewalk, and 50 cents per foot for sewer complete. In the matter of the proposed improvement of Victoria street between Fourteenth and Tennessee streets, the bid of J. Hein at 85 cents per foot for grading and graveling, 28 cents per foot for curb, 8% cents per square foot for curb, 8% cents per square foot for sidewalk, and 50 cents per foot for sewer complete, was accepted.

The petition from a number of business men on Spring street between Third and Fourth streets, asking the City Council to declare the phonographic parlors on that block a nuisance and to cause the same to be abated, came up vesterday before the Board of Public Works, to which body abated, came up yesterday before the Board of Public Works, to which body it had been referred by the Council. Mr. Tally, the owner of the place, appeared before the board, accompanied by his attorney, and presented a counter petition signed by a much larger number of people on that block than had signed the original petition. He was prepared to prove just what kind of a business he conducted, and that it was not a nuisance. He also promised to show up some interesting things, such as the motives which lare said to have induced certain persons to sign the first petition. As his second petition had not been before the City Council and had therefore not been referred to the board, it was decided to set next Friday as the time for the hearing of both sides of the matter, and both petitions went over until that day. In the mean time Mr. Tally was instructed to file his communication to the Council with the City Clerk, which he did.

It is also alleged that Thirtieth street

The Board of Public Works yesterday

recommended to the City Council that the district of assessment for the opening of Burlington avenue between Maryland and Sixth streets, extend on Burlington avenue from First to Sixth streets, and on Fifth street from Bur-liston avenue to a point 230 feet west thoreof.

Twentieth Street Improvement. The petition for the complete im-provement of that portion of Twentieth provement of that portion of Twentieth street, between Grand avenue and Figueroa street, which was recently opened at great expense to the property-owners, has been granted, and the netition has been referred to the City Engineer. His instructions are to make an examination of the street and to estimate the cost. The presentation of the necessary ordinance of intention will depend upon whether the estimate of cost will come within the provisions of the law with reference to the bond act.

Westlake Improvements.

The construction of a cement side-valk entirely around Westlake Park and the improvement of Benton boulevard, which were petitioned for by some of the members of the Westlake some of the members of the Westlake Improvement Association, will not be immediately ordered by the City Council. The matter came up yesterday before the Board of Public Works, and it was decided to make a careful examination as to the present necessity for the improvement at this time. Until that examination is made the matter will not be reported upon to the Council. In the matter of the covering of the walks and driveways of the park with porphyry, the Board of Park Commissioners has ordered the pagk superintendent to look into it, and if the cost is not too gerat, the work will be ordered.

theories of the Clark trial.

And even, in the event of it being conclusively shown that Joe Hunter committed the murder, that would neither exonerate Clark, nor serve to restore him to liberty. Even then he would be an accessory after the fact, for in his latest story he concedes that he kept a look out for Joe Hunter while he started the horse and wagon down the Son Fernandorged and from down the San Fernando road, and from down the San Fernando-road, and from thence on kept to himself the secret of the crime. Clark swore that he was telling the truth at his trial: he also swore he was telling the truth at this preliminary examination. The statements were in direct conflict with one another, and standing alone neither story was of any value, for no one could tell which was the perjured statement or whether both were not tissues of falsifications. In the light of other testimony, however, Clark's later statement took on importance: it appeared reasonable, and a motive could be discerned. There was one sentence, too, in which Clark unconsciously struck a hidden chord, that, without intent upon his part, had the ring of truth. He was asked what they did after Joe Hunter shot the Chinaman, and the lifeless body sank to the ground. "We just stood over the body," said he, "and looked at one another." This is true to human experience. In the criminal taking of human life the cry of blood goes up, and for the moment the murderer realizes the enormity of his offense. Science and the churches explain the matter in different ways, while agreeing to the fact.

Justice Young, in his short summing up, gave one or two reasons why the defendant ought to be held to answer; but before that point was reached there was much enjoyment for the crowd that again filled the courtroom to overflowing. Assistant District Attorney Williams and Mr. Jones enlivened the proceedings with their spatting, and at one point Sheriff Burr interposed and claimed the right to make an explanation. All of which was hugely enjoyed by the onlookers.

THE EAGLE ROCK EPISODE.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Davis first testified in the morning, and described the finding of the body under Joe Hunter's house, about twenty-five feet from the small door by which access was galned to the basement. He thought the dead Chinaman would weigh from 110 to 115 pounds, and where he was found the height from the ground to the joists of the floor was only fourteen inches. Al Barrel, keeper of the roadhouse, recalled for the prosecution, stated that after Joe Hunter passed his place, at about 8 o'clock in the evening, he saw him again at about 9 o'clock, when he returned to the saloon with Harry Clark. They had a drink, and Clark got a bottle of whisky and then left, going in the direction of George Hunter's house. THE EAGLE ROCK EPISODE.

"What, are you blind?" inquired Mr. Williams.

Mr. Jones protested against the prosecuting attorney's manner.

"Well," said Mr. Williams, "he has made statements referring to this case, and witnesses have said they were afraid to come here and testify."

Mr. Jones protested some more against what he termed the prejudicial conduct of Mr., Williams.

It finally developed that to the best of the witness' belief, the buggy that the three men were in was Joe Hunter's Concord buggy. The prosecution desired to show that the belated visitors wanted to get some whisky from the storekeeper, but the court ruled such testimony out, it not being shown that either of the three men was the defendant.

On cross-examination the witness said he didn't know Joe Hunter by sight, and when the defendant was pointed out to him he denied that he was one of the trio who arrived at his place in the Covered here.

out to him he denied that he was one of the trio who arrived at his place in the Concord buggy.

Al Barrel being recalled, cast some light on the buggy episode, by saying that a man named Nellis borrowed Joe Hunter's buggy. That is, finding it tied up at the saloon, he took possession of it for the purpose of driving over to Verdugo. Al Barrel saw Nellis shortly after 9 o'clock at night, when he returned from Verdugo, and Barrel told him he had better take the buggy home. Nellis sald in that case he would have to walk home, and he intended to drive into town.

F. B. Clark, father of Harry Clark, testified to the Peniand's shack being $30 feet from Joe Hunter's house. After hearing his son testify to having shot at a lizard, and that the shot had penetrated the board, he had gone out and got the plece of planking described. Deputy Sheriff Sheldon was with him at the time.

Mr. Williams part read the testimony given by Joe Hunter at the preliminary examination of Clark. Apart from the short conversation he remembered havink with Clark when he got home, and a faint recollection of, the girls-coming to supper, the witness' mind was a blank. Then Mr. Jones offered the gold sleeve buttons, which had been submitted in evidence, and asked him if he had ever seen them before. "Yes, sir, I have," answered Clark. "Whose were they?"

"Mine."
Mr. Jones turned to Mr. Williams in triumph, for those blood-stained cuffs with the buttons in them had been inade to cut quite a figure in the case. "Tes," retorted Mr. Williams, "but these are not the sleeve-buttons that were in those blood-stained cuffs at all. I will show that."

Then both counsel let off 'a lot of verbal pyrotechnics. Mr. Jones said Mr. Williams was a most unpleasant man to try a case with, and the prose-

Mr. Williams was a most unpleasant man to try a case with, and the prosecuting attorney retorted by accusing defending counsel of throwing out slurs. "You're just about as fussy a kind of a man as I've come across myself," said Mr. Williams, as he settled back in his chair and allowed his mind to wander reminescently. "Do you remember a saloon-keper at Eighth and Main streets having his till tapped an May 18?" inquired Mr. Jones, resuming his examination of Clark.

"No, sir."
"Is it not a fact that you are the man who, in company with another, held that saloon-keeper up?"

"No. sir, it is not."
"Did you relieve Mrs. Coleman of the contents of her till?"
The court interposed in behalf of the witness, holding that counsel could not impeach a witness in that way.

the chickens that had their heads cut off and were thrown under the house. He said that to Martin Aguirre.

"Did you ever testify at the pre-liminary examination to that effect?" inquired Mr. Williams.

Mr. Jones made the objection that the prosecution could not impeach his own witness in that way, and the objection was sustained. Mr. Williams urged that to prove, then, that the witness had never so testified he would have to introduce the witness's testimoney as given at the Coroner's inquest, the preliminary examination, or the trial of Clark. He urged that to ask the question was the quickest way.

But Mr. Jones wouldn't have it that But Mr. Jones wouldn't have to that way. It didn't matter if Mr. Clement had failed to testify three times before; it sufficed for him that witness had testified that way now. He taunted Mr. Williams with putting witnesses upon the stand without witnesses upon the stand without knowing what they were going to say, and that made Mr. Williams very an-

and that made Mr. Williams very angry.

"I am representing the State," said Mr. Williams, "and desire to get only the facts. I take no witnesses outside and drill them as to what they shall say. It doesn't matter to me personally whether the defendant is discharged or not. I've asked the witness the question to get his excuse for not testifying this way before. Since this examination began I've discovered that there is great feeling in the matter. Sheriff Burr is my friend, and yet I have heard it testified to here that he asked a witness why he mixed himself up in the case. It matters not to me whether a man is my friend or foe; when I hear that of a public officer I can't understand it. The prosecution has no feeling in the matter, and the Sheriff ought not to have any, and he has no right to say to any man that he ought not to mix up in this case. A crime has been committed, and a defendant is charged with murder; it is the duty of the Sheriff merely to serve the processes of the court, and have no feeling in the matter."

The court rapped for order; a buzz of expectancy ran through the courtroom. The District Attorney's office, and that could only result in benefit to the defendant, and so Mr. Jones bided his time to "sie 'em" on. The burly form of Sheriff Burrr pushed through the crowd, and Mr. Burr, addressing the court, said he would like to say a word.

The Sheriff denied that he had done so.

"Did you tell Brighton not to mix up in the case?" asked Mr. Williams, putting the question squarely to the Sheriff.
"I did not," was the answer. "I told him I didn't think that they would find anything different than in the Clark case."

case."
"This is very interesting," blandly remarked Mr. Jones, "but I think the Sheriff ought to be allowed to make his Sheriff ought to be allowed to make his statement."

And then the Sheriff did. "I've shown no feeling," he said. "If Hunter is guilty, I hope he will be convicted, and if not that he will be discharged." While this little storm was in course, Sheriff Burr appeared to be very much hurt by the reflection cast upon him, and spoke with considerable warmth while announcing the unbiased stand he took.

he took.

Al Barrel was recalled for the prosecution to testify as to the cuff buttons.

He said those in evidence (Harry Clark's) were not the same as those he had seen in the blood-stained cuffs at Log Huntar's Joe Hunter's.

Mr. Williams here announced that Joe Hunter's.

Mr. Williams here announced that the prosecution rested its case. Mr. Jones retired with the defendant for a few moments, and upon returning into court moved to dismiss the case on the ground that there was no evidence whatever connecting Joe Hunter with the murder, or to put him on defense for his life. Coursel said he spoke in all candor, and if he believed him to be gruilty he would as a law-abiding citizen, advise the court to hold him to answer. Mr. Jones then proceeded to charge the prosecuting atorney with being moved by feeling, and that he had said anything of the kind. Mr. Williams interposed to deny that he had said anything of the kind. What he did say was that if the defendant was not held, then he would bring the matter before the grand jury. Counsel for the defense pointed out to the court that only by believing the story of a self-confessed perjurer and netty larcenist could any excuse be found for denying the motion.

All the same the court denied the motion. Mr. Jones then, while disclaiming any intention of reflecting upon the court, said that if the court believed Clark, the putting on the stand of thirty or forty witnesses would not change his belief. In such case the defense rested.

Justice Young said he thought counsel to the matter, we of the matter.

Justice Young said he thought coun-sel took an unfair view of the matter, but it was for him to consider what was best to be done in the premises, and the court proceeded to deliver his

THE DEFENDANT HELD. "The court holds," said Justice Young, that Joseph Hunter should be held to answer the crime charged, and I will answer the crime charged, and I will give one or two reasons why the court has arrived at that conclusion.

"In the first place, Clark's story, unless corroborated, would be of no value, for he has confessed his perjury. Has his story been corroborated? As he told it the court believes it to be truthful, and I don't believe that he could have told a story other than a truthful one under the most ingenious cross-examination, without degenious cross-examination, without de-parting from the terms of his original statement.

a truthful one under the most ingenious cross-examination, without departing from the terms of his original statement.

"Then it would not have been possible for Clark to have committed the murder and disposed of the body between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock. It would have been a physical impossibility for him to have lifted and carried the dead man, and I speak from personal experience, for I handled a number of dead men during the war. I mention the time because, on the supposition that Joe Hunter did not know of what had taken place, he arrived home at 8 o'clock. From thence on Hunter and Clark were together, or at least it would not have been possible for Clark to have obliterated traces of the crime without his being seen, or have disposed of the wagon.

"Then, too, one of the Hunter boys came on horseback to the house in the morning, and then Joe Hunter rode off calling to Clark to follow him to Hoffman's. He telephoned to the Sheriff that a murder had been committed. No one knew of a murder, or even that a Chinaman was missing at that time, but only that a horse and wagon had been found on the road. The defendant was the first man to discover that a murder had been committed, I see no reason for that.

"The story told by Clark is reasonable. The quarrel in which the defendant became involved was natural, and the alternative supposition furnishes no reasonable incentive. The crime was not done for robbery, for the money remained on the body. The Chinaman had no quarrel with Clark, and in no supposable way, with Hunter in the house, could Clark have removed the body and obliterated the marks of the crime. No blood was found upon anything but the curfts, and they have turned out not to have been defiled like a butcher's, and such clothing has never been discovered.

"It is the order of this court that Joseph Hunter be held to answer the charge of murder in the Superior Court of this curnty without bonds."

That ended it. The crowd drifted out, and Joe Hunter was surrounded by his friends, shaking hands ere at Last. John C. Kofoed, who has for some years lived upon the charity of relayears lived upon the charity of relatives and friends, and who, twelve or thirteen years ago, owned one of the largest businesses in Topeka, Kan, yesterday received notice of a supreme court decision which places him in possession of from $30,000 to $50,000 worth of property in the Knob Hill tract, near Westlake.

When John C. Kofoed came here in boom time, he had several thousand dollars. He bought the Longstreet property, and lived there for a time. But he was tempted into speculation, and bought some two hundred lots in what is now the Knob Hill tract. Since then these lots have greatly increased in value, ranging from $300 to $1500 each. They are located between Third and Sixth and Alvarado and Coronado streets. The property is within the 1600-foot limit described by the Westlake protective oil ordinance, and, in case of that ordinance and in case of that ordinance and prove of grater value than at present.

Kofoed bought of P. Beaudry and S. C. Hubbell and others, by partial payments and mortgages, and overstepping himself, became innancially involved. He made loans to friends. By 1892 he had become so involved as to need an attorney. He retained S. B. Gordon in a suit against Hubbell for a settlement on twenty lots. The case was decided by Judge McKinley in favor of the plaintiff, the latter to pay a purchase price of some $7000 or $8000. Among the judgment for $200.

Kofoed was then in New Mexico on on Kofoed's property, which then consisted in equity of redemption in portions of the Knob Hill tract, and in equitable right by virtue of a contract with Hubbell for the purchase of the above-mentioned twenty acres. Gordon was to pay the $200 as he collected it, any residue to apply to Gordon's fee bill.

the bill.

On the strength of the $200 deficiency judgment; Gordon and Cosby levied on the Hubbell contract and paid the purchasing price, as set by Judge McKinley. Upon Kofoed's return from Mexico he was very bitter against Gordon. He employed T. M. Stewart and sued Gordon and Cosby to have them declared his trustees by virtue of their action in handling his affairs, and by Gordon's attorney contract. Judge Shaw declared them trustees on this showing, and ordered that Kofoed should pay the $200 and the purchasing mrice, thus fuifilling the contract made by Gordon and Cosby, as trustees. Until the 31st of July, 1893, was given to nav these amounts, when by Judge Shaw's order Cosby was to execute a deed to Kofoed.

Kofoed raised the money and appeared on the date named. But Gordon and Cosby had decided by that time to make one more effort to secure the Hubbell property. They refused the money tendered them, on the ground that they would appeal the case. They refused to execute the deed.

On August 1 they were cited for contempt. Judge McKinley allowed a second tender. The appeal was dismissed. Three times, however, Gordon and Cosby refused the tender, alleging that it was too late. In January they were again cited for contempt, but the case did not hold, it having been found that the clerk had neglected to enter the second tender. Again Judge McKinley ordered that the deed be executed. Gordon and Cosby then apfee bill.

Gordon and Cosby announce will make Kofoed no further

A decision on the demurer was rendered by Judge Van Dyke yesterday in the suit of A. J. Bramlette against Andrew Laswell, which was of some importance masmuch as by it the court holds that a well is a "structure."

The action was rought to foreclose a mechanical lien for the balance die on the contract price for boring and sinking a well for the demant on his premises. The defendant demurred, and contended that the work in question did not fall within the provisions of the code, providing for mechanical liens. The code provides that "all persons and labores of every tisse performing labor, upon or furnishing materials to be used in the construction, literation or repair, either in whole or in part, of any building, wherf, bridge, ditch, fiume, aquiduct, tunnel, fence, machinery, railroad, wagon-road, or other structure, shall have a lien upon the property upon which they have bestowed labor or furnished materials. It was urged that a well does not fall within any of the objects snumerated in this section of the code, but the court points out that article 20, section 15, of the present Constitution, contains a declaration as to the rights of mechanics and others to a lien "upon the property" upon which they have bestowed labor, etc. The sinking of a well is a bestowal of labor upon property, and the statute is remedial and passed in obedience to the requirements of the Constitution, and is to be liberally construed in furtherance, of the purposes for which it was ambiguous, uncertain and unintelligits.

THE BLECTION AND BUSINESS.

Henry Clews in his latest weekly letter says of the election and its effects:

"The silver issue is laid in its grave, and Mr. Bryan with it. Populism lies slain in its own strongholds, and the divisive policies that belong to it. The firmness with which the gold basis is affirmed exceeds the most sanguine expectations of its friends and confounds its enemies. The movement favoring a peconstruction and expansion of our bank-note system is put on the basis of an early probability, and there is no mistaking the public still that the notes shall be redeemable in gold coln. Taken as a whole, the election shows a remarkable change in public coin. Taken as a whole, the election shows a remarkable change in public sentiment from the vagaries that have been deeply unsettling confidence to a conservative and assuring attitude. After listening to the disaffecting schemes of demagogues and the allurements of repudiators, the sober second thought and the fundamental honesty of the popular heart have asserted themselves, and we have another of the many evidences in our history that, while our impulsive people may for a time be misled by the schemes of political agitators, yet at the eleventh hour of danger they may be trusted to come round to the path of safety and the side of honor."

sugar market. The wires brought are port the other das that Claus Spreckels was in the East for the purpose of bringing about an understanding between the two contending forces. A few days later came a report from New York that the American Sugar Refining Company had advanced prices % of a cent per pound, and that Doscher and the other independent people had done the same. This seems to contradict the prophecy made by Willett & Gray, the largest sugar brokers in New York, to the effect that the war had merely begun.

The condition of the market is stated thus in a circular issued by the firm named above:

"The refiners stocks are now 128,321 tons, making total supplies to December 31, say, 383,371 tons. The requirements for melting should not be less than 250,000 tons, leaving a possible stock at end of year of 53,371 tons to be held by the American Sugar Refining Company and the six opposing refiners, an improbable smally quantity among so many; hence, importations of more or less beet sugars must be made according to trade conditions for refined. The sales include the 5000 tons of Hawaiian sugars which have been held in warehouses until they could be sold at the full market value of other sugars of the same polarization. Heretofore, on account of these sugars paying no duty, refiners have been accustomed to expect, and sellers been willing to make concessions of about onelighth of a cent per pound. The fact of the Arbuckle refinery paying full value shows the advantage to importers of the increased buying competition for raw sugar."

On the other hand, the reasons for a compromise and the way to bring it about are thus pointed out in a circular issued by a firm of Wall street stock brokers:

"Mr. Arbuckle and Mr. Doscher have erected refineries and have practically sular issued by a firm of Wall street stock brokers:

"Mr. Arbuckle and Mr. Doscher have erected refineries and have practically announced their purpose to enter the sugar market with the view of making money. In order to find a market for their products they naturally would have to cut prices, but the moment they do that the sugar company would meet them and thus destroy all possible do that the sugar company would meet them and thus destroy all possible profit that they might have contemplated when they erected the refineries. They went into the sugar business to make money and not simply to cut the throat of the American company, and if they find that the American company is going to destroy all the profit that there is in the business by cutting prices—or lowering their prices to meet cuts made by themselves, the 'bull' argument is that it naturally would occur to them that the best way to make money would be by entering into an agreement with the American company, which would result in putting up the price of the stock. By acquirpany, which would result in putting up the price of the stock. By acquiring a lot of the stock in advance of such agreement they certainly could make a lot of money; whereas, by cutting prices for the refined sugar, they would make no money. It probably will occur to Wall street people who think on the situation that an agreement between the Arbuckles, Doschers, and the American company would be more productive of profit in the stock market, as well as in the sugar market, than warfare."

STATE OF TRADE.

Dun's Weekly Review.

IASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say that the situation is clearer, and the improvement in business which was expected after the election has begun. Payments that the situation is clearer, and the improvement in business which was expected after the election has begun. Payments through clearinghouses are far the largest ever known for the week $1.3 per cent. larger than in 1832. The glass workers have resumed, the anthractic coal output is heavy, and much beyond the present capacity of markets; the troubles in Ill.nois coal mines have been settled, and the new strike of shoe workers in Mariboro, Mass., is now the only labor hindrances of consequences. It is noteworthy that in spite of all changes the price of spot wheat has but slightly changed. The exports for the week, flour included, have been $3,98,788 bushels from Atlantic ports, against $3,23,788 bushels, against $1,93,898,804 last year. Such returns leave wide room for conjecture as to the influences governing the price, but with $1,0,337,311 bushels received at western supplies threaten to run short. The woolen manufacturer has gained in orders for the coming season, which justifies the heavy buying of materials recently seen, and there are also better orders for speedy delivery, but the demand is not large, and much madohinery is still waiting idly. While sales of wool at the three chief markets were heavy, 28,224,500 pounds in three weeks, against 29,224,500 pounds in three she for export, covering 3,000,000 pounds of Montevideo and Australian wool at 16 and 18 cents, respectively, which makes clearer the fact that prices asked by holders here are relatively high. Some concessions at Philadelphia follow those at B in Canada, against 22 last year.

Bradstreet's Review.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: "Evidence accumulates that the good results flowing from the recent elections are no longer confined entirely to improvement in tone and confidence, though the active feeling influences dealings in both financial and mercantile lines. Several substantial developments present themselves this week, notable among which are a number of advances in prices, exceptionally few declines thereof, growing strangth in the plant.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

Grain and Produce.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—A rather weak tone was shown by wheat at the opening. Reports from Laverpool received before the opening hero showed %616 decline. Argentine crop reports were very favorable, and seaboard houses reported small export demand. December started 469% lower, and May %64c lower. The selling pressure was not very heavy, and a moderate buying demand, mostly from professionals, caused prices to slowly advance. For two hours atterward the market was dult and in the May fairly steady. The market became quite firm for a time after 11 o'clock. Orders from the outside either to buy or sell were few and far between, but local traders were rather inclined to favor the buying side, especially as regards December, and prices gradually worked upward. Halt an hour from the close the lack of local cash demand, apparent all day, began to be appreciated, and the bottom apparently dropped out of the market. The sudden break, however, brought plenty of buyers, and in the last few minutes of trading prices advanced as rapidly as they had declined. Coru was fairly active. May closed a shade higher. Outs were a little higher, but not especially active. May closed a shade higher. The market for provisions, with the exception of a few minutes' weakness around the opening, due to sympathy with grain, was firm, but decidedly dull. At the close January pork was 5c higher, lard 24c higher and ribs unchanged.

The leacing futures closed as follows: Shares and Money.

Varued to Keep Away From Mo-Laughlia's Place-Depew Dis-charged-Two Little Boys in a Peck of Trouble-W. E. Arthur's Condition-Shakespeare Club Re-

PASADENA, Nov. 18.—[Regular Correspondence.] The domestic affairs of John McLaughlin of South Raymond avenue have required more or less attention from the police during the past year. Last spring he was arrested on the complaint of his wife, charging him with failure to support her. She accused him of squandering his earnings upon another woman, and began proceedings for a divorce. After a series of crimiations and recriminations, a truce was patched up, and the home was what it used to be. The couple have been getting on harmonicusly and the police have heard nothing from them since the truce till this evening, when McLaughlin appeared and demanded a warrant for the arrest of Rowland McCoy for disturbing the peace.

is shed, though wrath and excitement wed freely.

A warrant was issued by Judge Rossiter of Officers Pinkham and Reynolds went down serve it upon McCoy, who fives on South hir Oaks avenue. He was in bed when the liceman arrived, but arose to receive them deshabille. When he ascertained what was nited, he skipped back into bed again, pulled e clothes over his pate and vowed he would by there. It did not take long to persuade the contract of the latter's wife, however, and he is now in the kiup. He says he was in McLaughin's house administer medicine to the latter's wife, on had been ill and sent him for the pilis. Coy is a dudish young darkey, who has ceived warining from the Marshal to keep any from McLaughlin's place. The Marshal dhim a short time ago that if he persisted hanging around there he would be in dant of losing his life.

D. E. Humphreys loaded up on and thought he owned the earth. He was making life miserable for people on Fifth street between Maple and Wall, when one of the police detectives happened along and invited him to preserve the peace. But Humphreys wasn't in the preserving business; he wanted to make Rome howl, and desired the officer to understand that he was running that particular portion of the globe. As usual, though, the hurry-up wagon claimed him for its own, and he was laid away in a dungeon at the Police Station to ponder over the in-advisability of attempting to introduce mining-camp jag methods into the quiet precincts of Fifth street. A bicycle which seemed to be in his possession was also taken to the Police Station, but on the way he disclaimed its ownership.

Death of Dr. Owens.

Dr. J. B. Owens, one of the best-known physicians of Los Angeles, died shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday morning, at his home, No. 525 South Broadway. His last illness was a long and painful one, a complication of diseases having made him an acute sufferer for the past year. He was 64 years of age, and was a native of Trumbull county, O. Dr. Owens was a sturdy, self-made man, having struggled hard to get the education which made him one of the leading physicians of Southern Ohio. He had an especially high rank as a careful diagnostician. He lived for many years at Lebanon, O., where he had a large and lucrative practice. He was married October 4, 1865, to Miss Mary M. Keever, daughter of Abram and Ann Longstreet Keever of Mason, Warren county, O. He came to Los Angeles in January, 1881, and won wide respect as a professional man and substantial citizen. Mrs. Owens survives him.

Repairs to Deep-water Moorings

REDONDO, Nov. 18.—[Regular Cor-respondence.] The Pacific Coast Steam-ship Company's steamer Bonita sailed Some of them are in very deep water, considering their nearness to shore. One of them, with the chain and anchor attached to it, weighs 50,000 pounds. It is in 150 feet of water. Some time ago it became unshackled so that the chain dropped to the bottom. The recovery of the chain was an interesting piece of work. Another buoy lies in 180 feet of water. There are twelve moorings in all. Each was hoisted aboard the steamer, anchor and all, and every link and other connection inspected and replaced where necessary. Since the moorings were put in a number of big vessels have been attached to them. It is said that in no case has a vessel ever dragged one of them. The inspection demonstrated that the moorings in the deeper water do not wear their connections as rapidly as do those in water of lesser depth.

Walter F. Hans Outlines the Water Question - Assemblyman - Elect Conrey Speaks for the Party to a Crowd at Bouttier Hall.

Several hundred persons crowded into Bouttier Hall, Bellevue avenue and Bunker Hill street, last evening, to listen to addresses made by the Republican city candidates. The meeting was marked by enthusiasm, and the nominees were frequently cheered. Candidates for all the city executive positions, except that of Mayor, as well as Councilman Fred L. Lafayette Martindale, candidate for City Clerk, made a short address. He was followed by W. A. Hartwell, who is a candidate to succeed himself as City Treasurer. Mr. Hartwell said:

"Now, if any of you were going to bet on a horse, you would care little about his pedigree, if he had won money for you before, but you would back him without question. I am a good deal like a race horse. I have run this race before, and come out ahead. Now, if you voters of this ward will back me again, I'll guarantee to come out in the lead, along with the rest of the ticket, for I am sure we all have a better track to run on than we had two years ago."

Councilman Charles H. Toll of the Fifth Ward responded to a general invitation of the crowd to speak. He was greeted with a storm of applause as he walked to the front of the hall, and his address was frequently interrupted by the audience, in its effort to express an appreciation of his talk. He defined the cause of the Democratis, Populists and Silverites, and after making a general appeal for the entire Republican ticket, continued:

Millinery World

I am a warper in a cotton mill, and am twenty-eight years old. I have been troubled with dyspepsia for a long ime, and have tried a great many remedies for it and docors, but nothing did me any good until I tried Ripans Tabiles, which have entirely cured me. I believe they will cure my case if used according to directions. I always speak a good word for them and use them myself whenever I need hem. Every one who has tried them here says they are he best medicine they have ever tried for indigestion.
